A Place in the Sun

The cast and crew of the British TV show, A Place in the Sun, are on the Coast, filming for next season. Above, British TV channel 4 sound recorder Lawrence Sayers on Thursday explains to local real estate agent Stacey Smith her part in a scene in Diamondhead.

The Coast is going to be featured on British TV. A crew from British TV channel 4 has been on the coast for about three weeks planning and filming an episode for the new season of A Place in the Sun, a popular British show.

The show, now in its fifth season with high ratings is the British version of the Home and Garden channel's House Hunters, said associate producer Lucy Davie, but with a big difference. The house hunters, usually couples, are looking to buy property not in the cold wet British Isles, but in some warm and sunny destination.

Favre refutes Compretta's criticism

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre was angered at recent assertions by state Rep. J.P. Compretta that the city failed to "communicate" with the Legislature adequately for state Tideland Trust money this year.

Compretta was "well aware" of the Bay's application, said the mayor. And while the city didn't call Compretta daily to check on the appropriation status, Favre said, "as our representative, we would have hoped he would have been aware of it and taken it upon himself to follow up on it."

ATSDR rep: Injection well

Community members weren't the only ones who left confused after a public meeting with representatives from the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry. The people from the agency itself seemed a little less certain of their own conclusions at the close of Thursday night's meeting at the Pass Christian City Hall. The agency had issued conclusions of a preliminary study completed earlier this spring which said that the DuPont DeLisle plant was not polluting groundwater.

The agency is working to complete more studies on possible contamination by air emissions and diox-

"The question is whether they are polluting groundwater and the answer is an unequivocal yes. The wells are contaminating water at 10,000 feet. ... It hasn't reached the Bay yet. As far as the EPA knows, it hasn't moved out of the plant boundaries. It is moving toward the Bay, but it isn't there yet."

Pearlington man nabbed for alleged molestation

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Pearlington resident has been charged with alleged molestation of three boys, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Interim Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt, who is handling the investigation on Friday said, "Lloyd J. Dunaway, Jr., 42, of Pearlington has been charged with three counts of child molestation."

Dunaway was arrested on Thursday in connection with the alleged molestation of three boys, two are age three and the other aged four, Hurt said.

Dunaway's bond has been set at $150,000, and he is lodged at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility awaiting a preliminary hearing.

Hurt did say that Dunaway was not related to the alleged victims.

Public hearing set for Bay preservation ordinance

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

A large audience is likely for next Wednesday's 5:30 p.m. meeting at the Depot concerning a proposed historic preservation ordinance for Bay St. Louis.

The document, in formation and in waiting for six years, is a bold set of proposed new regulations that offer to help mold the future historic landscape of the town. That it has been on and off the shelf for so long is testimony to its controversial nature.

Proponents are adamant that the city needs some regulations on the books to protect the city's vast historical stock of homes, buildings and landmark sites. Opponents fear a new layer of bureaucracy, perhaps thwarting individual property owners' rights.

And from a political standpoint, success or failure of the proposed regulations rides largely on how strongly public sentiment develops on the issues.

Ward 2 City Council member Jim Thriffley said Thursday the new regulations would enhance the values of historic properties — as well as the values of neighboring properties. "And it preserves our heritage," said Thriffley.

Damaging or losing that heritage, he said, is not something any council member wants to have happen "on our watch."

Still, Thriffley acknowledges serious concerns among some on council and in the community over the potential negatives. "Some council members are concerned about forcing people to do things they don't want to do," said Thriffley.

And there are many concerns in the community, as well, he said. One hefty objection is coming from St. Stanislaus, with extensive properties radiating from South Beach Boulevard.

The boys' prep school includes several historic buildings, and is amid an extensive construction program — all of which would fall under the proposed new regulation's provisions.

"Any time you present something of this magnitude, there's got to be a spirit of cooperation," he said. "...We need to come to a happy medium."

Now serving as president of council, Thriffley represents a district that is awash with historic homes and buildings.

The June 11 workshop was sparked by the recent urgings of the Hancock County Historical Society. Its executive director, Charles Gray, and president, Jim Henrie, pleaded in April with City Council to move the proposed regulations from cold storage to serious consideration.

The two noted that hundreds of hours of behind-the-scenes work have been done in pursuit of a preservation/zoning system for the city.

Six years have passed since a panel of citizens was appointed to draft proposed regulations that would safeguard the fate of Bay St. Louis' considerable stock of historic structures.

"We worked, literally, a year" on the proposal, said Henrie, incumbent president of the Historical Society of Hancock County. After a draft ordinance was presented to the city by the panel of citizens, another group was appointed to go over its details and make recommendations to the city.

"A reasonable person would have to conclude, in light of the time and energy that went into it, now is the time to move forward," Henrie said.

Among other things, the proposal is controversial because it would give a commission of citizens authority to block demolitions of certain historic properties, oversee renovations and restorations, and govern the architecture of new buildings in historic districts.

Henrie said he understands the sensitive nature of such regulations, and council's "very legitimate concerns" over how the system would work. Still, he said, some regulations are called for. "Give us something in place...as a beginning."

The Society's Board of Directors drew up a statement this week to express its general views on the proposed ordinance.

"Hancock County as a whole needs to preserve its historical assets. The immediate concern is to have the city of Bay St. Louis enact an ordinance to preserve historic character. The character of the city as a residential community and its economic base are entwined with its history. This must be preserved in an ordinance enacted by the city council."

The society's board also acknowledged the controversial aspects, however. "We realize the need for balance between growth and preserving our historical ambience."

"We are supporting this ordinance because it is not too harsh in its enforcement. The ordinance being considered is one that is similar to many ordinances around the state of Mississippi which reserve our rich heritage."

Thriffley said copies of the ordinance will be available for the public's review Wednesday, and interested citizens will have a chance to air questions and comments.

The Big Score

Torrential rains on Friday may have soaked the field at the Bay St. Louis Athletic Complex, forcing the cancellation of Saturday's little league baseball games, but it didn't dampen the enthusiasm of Bay St. Louis city officials and representatives from Treutel Insurance Agency and Safeco Life & Investments. More than a dozen people, including Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre; Bay councilmen Bill Taylor and Bobby Compretta; Bay Parks and Recreation Director Gus McKay; David Treutel Sr. and David Treutel Jr.; Safeco reps; Hancock Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Tish Haas; team coaches and players; and Bobo the Clown turned out Saturday for the dedication of the complex's new electronic scoreboard. The $20,000 scoreboard was donated to the city by Treutel Insurance Agency and Safeco.

Hancock Water & Sewer wants input

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

If you have questions concerning sewer service (or water service in the area) then make arrangements to come to a public meeting being held at the Hancock County Civic Center on Friday, June 13 at 1 p.m.

Hancock County Sewer and Water director Eddie Renz said the district wants to give the public a chance, once and for all to ask questions and get answers. So the district is holding the public meeting at the same time as their regular monthly meeting at the Civic Center location. Regular business will be discussed after the public input, Renz said.

To help answer the public's questions the district has arranged for representatives from the State Health Department, the Attorney General's Office, environmental and other specialists and a representative from the Department of Environmental Quality to be present.

The meeting originally came about because of questions raised by the Moran family who own property on Henry Shubert Rd.

The family said the district had installed equipment on their land without obtaining proper easements.

Some of the households hooked up to the sewer system but stopped paying bills. Last month the family said they wanted to unhook from the sewer, but wanted the district to leave the equipment on their land. They were unclear about how they wanted to handle the easement question.

The district policy is removal of equipment if customers do not pay bills. No agreement was reached at that meeting, but Renz said they were concerned that the family thought they were not required to hook up to sewer service, so they contacted the health department with questions.

Apparently many people are under the mistaken impression that if they have enough land to support a private treatment system or live a certain distance from the road, they are exempted from having to use the public sewer service, said Renz.

But if their property line comes within 100 ft. of a road, it doesn't matter where a house sits on the property, said Renz, if public service is offered, the houses on the property have to hook up to it.

"We thought this would be a good opportunity to dispel all rumors and answer all the questions," said Renz. "If you have questions, this is the time to ask them."

Waveland beach 'no swimming' advisory lifted

The MS Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) has lifted the beach advisory for Waveland Station 3, from Vacation Lane to the West to Favre Street to the East. Station 3 is located in front of St. Clairs Church.

MDEQ has received notice from the Gulf Coast

Research Laboratory (GCRL), which performs routine water sampling of the Mississippi Gulf Coast beaches for the agency, that repeated testing in this area has found that it is safe to resume swimming and other recreational activities in these waters and along the beach.

THE ARTS: Calendar of Events

One of the features of THE ARTS web site will be a Calendar of Events. And one of the unique things about this is that anyone can contribute arts information. The Calendar will be used to coordinate and promote arts related activities throughout the county.

The Calendar of Events will include special events, meetings, workshops, discussion groups, and anything else pertaining to the arts. For instance, art teachers can promote classes or workshops. Writers and poets can list readings. Musicians can list their gigs. Dance activities might range from ballet to tap to belly dancing. Theater activities might include tryouts, dress rehearsals and opening nights. Galleries can schedule exhibits and artist's talks. Schools can list arts activities and promote student shows. Open studios and art demonstrations can be advertised to showcase work to the public. Highlighting the many diverse art activities in our community will raise the awareness of arts and artists as a major quality of life asset.

In addition to providing the public with information on arts activities the Calendar of Events can also provide artists with information regarding deadlines and call for entries.

Information can be sent to Schonda Sweeney, web site administrator at GrpGirl@cs.com or mailed to 143 Grosvenor Place, Waveland MS 39576.

Alcan workers to get relocation help at job fair

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

Most of the 116 workers who found out they would no longer have jobs at the Bay St. Louis Alcan Cable plant after Aug. 15, will attend a job fair June 10 in Jackson County.

Rick Stokes, the plant manager, said Alcan made arrangements for employees to be off for the Tri-County Job Fair, which is being held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the B.E. Mac McGinty Civic Center in Pascagoula.

"There was a great deal of disappointment and loss (when everyone found out the plant was closing)," Stokes said. "This company has been in production for the last 23 years."

Employees, he said, are dealing with the facility's closing as best as they can. "I think they're appreciative of the company helping them find new careers," Stokes said.

Alcan began classes on resume development, job seeking, financial planning and interviewing on June 3 when it announced the closure.

"My full-time job has become finding jobs for 116 people," said Stokes, who has served as plant manager for the last 18 months. "We have a very talented workforce. Everyone is well trained."

The Missouri native hopes to stay on the Coast once the plant shuts down. "I'm going to the job fair," he said. "I have to look for a job as well."

The companies that will exhibit at the job fair, which is sponsored in part by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, are as follows: Ace Training Center Inc.,

Alabama Department of Transportation, America's Driving Force, BellSouth, Cable One, Circular Wireless, Federal Bureau of Prisons, Florida Power and Light Company, Gambro Health Care, Garden Park Medical Center, Grand Casino Biloxi, Hancock Bank, Long's Human Resource Service, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Military Sealift Command, Mississippi Army National Guard, Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, Mississippi Department of Corrections, Mississippi Department of Education, Mississippi Department of Human Services, Mississippi Employment Security Commission, Mississippi Hospital Association, Multistaffing, Networks of Florida, New Orleans Police Department and Northrop Grumman

Ship Systems.

Other companies will include Pascagoula School District, PEC/Premier Safety Management, Primerica Financial Services, Singing River Hospital System, Singing River Services, Social Security Administration, South Mississippi Surgeons, Southeast Technical Solutions Inc., Southern Company, Sun Herald, Swift Transportation, Tower Loan, Treadwell Ford, Truck Driver Institute, U.S. Army Recruiting Battalion, U.S. Naval Reserve Recruiting, Universal Personnel, University of Tulane, University of Central Florida - Soldiers to Scholars, University of South Alabama, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies, USM Gulf Coast, USM Gulf Coast Certification

Man nabbed on La. warrant and theft of sheriff's dept. administrator's boat

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Pearlinton resident was arrested Wednesday on a warrant from Louisiana, and in addition faces charges on the alleged theft of a boat, motor, trailer owned by Ronnie Cuevas, Sheriff Steve Garber reports.

Sheriff's Investigator John Luther said, "Joey Scott Gray, 25, Daytona Drive in Oak Harbor, was arrested on Wednesday on a warrant from Louisiana."

"Deputy Doug Ladner was on patrol and recognized a suspected vehicle in the boat theft at the Sunrise Trailer Park, which was stolen over the Memorial Day weekend from a residence on Kelly Road, and Ladner also had information the suspect was wanted in Louisiana," Luther said.

Luther continued, "Back up was called and Ladner, Lt. Jimmy Exposito, Deputy Jason Chandler and myself made the apprehension of Gray was placed in custody."

It was revealed that the suspect had possession of the boat and sold it to a person in Pearl River, LA, Barnett reported.

On Thursday St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's officers recovered the boat, trailer and motor from the person Gray allegedly sold it too, Luther said.

Gray was charged with one county of grand larceny, in addition is being held in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility for Louisiana law enforcement, Luther reported.

Luther is the lead investigator in the case and is assisted by Investigator Andre Fizer.

HMC to participate in NDMS disaster readiness exercise

Hancock Medical Center will participate in a major Homeland Security National Disaster Medical System exercise June 10-11. This is the first tri-state test of the Keelser Federal Coordinating Center with maximum NDMS partner participation and will include many agencies from coastal Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

Among the objectives of "Lifesaver 2003" are testing three Patient Reception Areas (PRA) at Gulfport, Mobile, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla., airports; working under a joint military/civilian Incident Command system; operating with two local area Disaster Medical Assistance Teams from Alabama and Florida and cross-flowing patients on C-130, Coast Guard and Army aircraft PRAs in different locations. This is the first test in the nation of two local PRA teams and three PRA operations for a wartime exercise scenario.

Hancock Medical Center participated in a weeklong multidisciplinary exercise last May in conjunction with Keesler Air Force Base and other coast hospitals.

HMC received praise from NDMS field monitors for the staff's professional and expedient handling of the mock disaster, according to Hank Wheeler, HMC Director of Facilities Services.

According to Federal Coordination Center Coordinator Master Sgt. Scott Thresher, 81st Medical Operations Squadron, "The overall goal of 'Lifesaver 2003' is to exercise the 81st Training Wing FCC managing three PRA's at the Combat Readiness Training Center at the Gulfport airport, Brookly Field in Mobile and the Pensacola airport through a joint effort between local DMATs and military FCC teams."

The exercise is based on a "what if" scenario. It supposes that Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom had resulted in substantial casualties, rather than the relatively few actually sustained. Under the exercise scenario, casualties from the conflicts overwhelm the capabilities of the overseas medical facilities and traditional Department of Defense reconstitution facilities in the U.S. As a result, the president, in coordination with Departments of Health and Human Services and Homeland Security, activates the NDMS.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

There was a very big celebration in London on Monday marking the 50th anniversary of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

In doing some research for my Archives column, I stumbled across the name of a Bay St. Louis resident who was in London for Queen Elizabeth II's coronation in 1953, and that person was Alden L. Mauffray.

Mr. Alden operated Mauffray's Hardware on Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis, next to Hancock Bank for many, many years.

While in Europe, he attended the 44th convention of Rotary International in Paris, representing the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club.

The story goes on to say that Uncle Aldie, as many of us called him, had flown by air plane to New York and from there sailed to Europe. He was also to visit Rome, Switzerland and other points of interest.

The special story to The Echo from Paris, France on Rotary International said there were more than 3,000 that came to Paris by airplane and boat from the U.S.A. and Canada.

The story said there were over 8,000 Rotary Clubs in 86 countries and regions represented, with Rotary's membership at an all-time high of 372,000 business and professional executives.

In celebration of her coronation's 50th anniversary, I think it was great that Queen Elizabeth II invited 500 kids, many disabled, poor, or orphaned to a casual celebration at Buckingham Palace.

I research for the Archives column, it is surprising at some of the items I find.

The community is really shaken by the announcement about Alcan Cable closing.

Alcan has been in Bay St. Louis and operation for some 23 years.

Hopefully all of the employees of Alcan can find job positions in the area, or elsewhere.

The facility's location, prior to Alcan was Industrial Enameling and I saw a copy of a letter from the original general contractor, Cox-Hardie Co., Inc., to the pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Church praising Claude Green of Bay St. Louis.

Claude Green as many of you know, is owner of Green Railroad Construction. At the time of the construction of the Industrial Enameling's facility in 1962, Our Lady of the Gulf Parochial School was in its infancy and needed lots of financial help.

Claude Green, who has been building railroads for 60 years and is still active in his company along with his sons, built the railroad spur for Industrial Enameling and donated the his entire proceeds to Our Lady of the Gulf to help the school.

A copy of the letter was sent in addition to Our Lady of the Gulf, but also to Mr. E.M. Brignac, the owner of Industrial Enameling; Bay St. Louis Mayor John Scaife; and Mr. Green, from the general contractor.

The letter in part stated "...Several months ago Mr. Green proposed to Mr. Brignac to offer his time and services to supervise the installation of the Railroad Spur Track for the Porcelain Enameling Plant, his remuneration being a donation to a most worthy cause, Our Lady of the Gulf Parochial School.

"Mr. Green has most capably and efficiently fulfilled his commitment, the quality of his services only exceed by the generosity of his noble offering."

Mr. Green's five sons and four daughters all attended the OLG School, which is now Bay Catholic in Bay St. Louis.

Over the years Green's company continued the maintenance of the tracks which are now at Alcan Cable.

Industrial Enameling and Alcan Cable have touched the lives of many of the residents of the area over the past 41 years.

A Hard Sell

The War on Terror and the events leading up to action in Iraq show clearly that America needs to close some military bases - in Europe.

Many Americans aren't buying the idea of closing bases statewide until we rethink our Cold War era Western European defense posture, especially as it relates to France and Germany.

In Western Europe America still maintains a host of military facilities, including heavy armored divisions placed there long ago to primarily defend Germany and France against a Soviet attack. Today the Soviet Union no longer exists. An attack on Western Europe is highly unlikely. Today French and Germans are discussing among themselves a new "Europeans only" defense structure outside of NATO.

Meanwhile, France has worked to oppose our liberation of Iraq, with the French reportedly even helping Saddam's henchmen escape. For these reasons I join many of you in becoming less inclined to pay the lion's share of Western Europe's defense load, especially against a phantom enemy that no longer exists.

As we saw with the terrorist attacks last week and the raising of our national terror alert, America has real enemies who are here today - terrorists who on September 11, 2001, made it clear that they want to kill Americans and destroy our way of life.

On September 11, America's homeland became the battleground. Jets were scrambled to defend New York and Washington. Military personnel, national guardsmen and thousands of firefighters, medical personnel and policemen from around America became combatants, guarding against additional attacks and helping in the recovery effort. Given what has happened since 9/11, it seems clear to many observers that we need better-placed foreign bases, and we need to maintain our domestic military facilities, especially training bases like those in Mississippi.

The naval aviators, air force pilots, infantrymen and others who performed so well in Afghanistan and Iraq received much of their training at domestic bases like those in Mississippi.

In addition to training for military personnel, today our domestic bases even help train law enforcement, fire and emergency personnel in disaster response, drug interdiction, and reaction to transportation-related mishaps - all of which play a vital role in homeland security and the War on Terror.

Multiple times Mississippi military bases have been considered for closure by the Base Realignment and Closure Commission (BRAC) - a supposedly independent

Farewell to St. Rose's Brother Bastian

Editor, Brother Bastian A. Liemahekin, SVD, who was here with us for a year is leaving us officially on the 2nd of June.

He along with all the SVD Priests and Brothers of the Southern Province will have their annual retreat at the newly constructed William J. Kelly, SVD Retreat Center in Bay St. Louis from June 2nd - June 6th. Brother Bastian will leave for his home country - Indonesia on the 9th of June.

St. Rose has been blessed with his presence for a year. Brother Bastian came to St. Rose as part of his CTP (Cross-cultural Training Program), a requirement of his Priestly Formation. As part of the Priestly Formation, a year is usually spent in a Parish/Mission/School set up to gain pastoral insights and experiences. As the Society of the Divine Word (SVD) is present in over 65 countries, a candidate is blessed to have the possibility of working in a foreign land, learning a new language, culture and customs of that place. This often is a great challenge. Brother Bastian had a year of language learning in Epworth, Iowa before coming to St. Rose. Soon he was acclimated into the place, people and the Ministries of St. Rose.

His involvement at St. Rose has been versatile. He assumed the role of an Acolyte, a Sacristan, a Lector, a Eucharistic Minister, a choir member, a CCD teacher etc. He was part of the RCIA team. He gave reflections on Friday and took the Eucharist to the Sick and Shut-ins of St. Rose with Mr. William Curry. He helped out Ms. Chari Lee, the Secretary in the Office in many ways. He volunteered his time with Save our Children Center and St. Vincent de Paul. He worked with Mr. Charlie Lanau, our Custodian on a weekly basis. Whenever people volunteered to work at St. Rose, Brother was right there with them. He did a commendable job at the Fair in 2002. He attended various meetings at St. Rose as part of his learning process. He was a good cook and a very disciplined person.

There were a number of people who helped him here. They are Ms. Marilyn Smith, Ms. Joan Thomas, Mrs. Barbara Powell, Mr. Charlie Lanau, Ms. Chari Lee, Ms. Theresa Willson to name a few. Thank you for your contributions of time and talent in his process of learning and ministering.

Brother Bastian has two more years to go before his Ordination to Priesthood. We wish him well and God's abundant blessings on his journey to Priesthood.

On a Personal Note: it was a privilege to know this young man personally and to live in the same house for an year. The time that we spent together praying, sharing our thoughts and insights, concerns and challenges, joys and sorrows, laughter and tears, games and fun will never be forgotten. You will be sadly missed. At the same time I am happy to see you go as it is for your growth, and advancement in life. May the good Lord bless you richly dear Brother.

Give dad the gift of knowledge this Father's Day

American Cancer Society urges men to learn about prostate cancer

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Most dads already have every shirt tie, tool and gadget they need. This year, give your dad a gift he truly needs - the facts about prostate cancer. Tell your dad about the risks. Tell him how to prevent it. You could save his life. There's no better way to say, "Happy Father's Day."

The American Cancer Society reports that an estimated 220,900 American men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year. As the second leading cause of cancer death among men, the disease will claim more than 28,900 lives in 2003. In Mississippi more than 2,900 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year, and 400 will die from this disease.

"Prostate cancer affects everyone - not just the patient," said Felice Kelly of the American Cancer Society. "Father's Day is the perfect time to talk to the special men in your life about this disease and how to prevent it. By speaking to a physician, men can learn more about available screenings and actively choose to have the tests."

The American Cancer

Society recommends that physicians offer all men over 50 a prostate specific antigen (PSA) test and digital rectal exam (DRE) annually. African American men or men with a family history of the disease should be tested beginning at age 45. Early screenings have proven to save lives.

In fact, when this cancer is detected before it has spread beyond the prostate gland, the five-year survival rate is 100 percent. The American Cancer Society also recommends that men learn as much as they can about prostate cancer so they can make informed decisions about their health.

As the largest nonprofit source of cancer research funds in the United States, the American Cancer Society is also uncovering answers to prostate cancer in research labs across the country. Research and scientific efforts funded by the American Cancer Society provide significant contributions to the knowledge, treatment and testing of this disease.

For men who have been diagnosed with prostate cancer and their families, the American Cancer Society's Man to Man education and support group provides information and discussion about the disease, treatments and their side effects as well as tips on coping.

Facing these decisions can seem overwhelming, but the American Cancer Society has numerous resources and services to help men navigate through the information and make educated decisions. By calling 1-800-ACS-2345 cancer patients and loved ones can ask questions, get disease-specific information, learn about treatment options or find out about a prostate cancer education and support group in their community. This service is free of charge and is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Information is also available through www.cancer.org, and cancer information specialists will respond to questions and comments submitted through the Web site.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy and service.

Lott

commission formed to recommend which bases to close. I have never voted for a BRAC round, and Mississippi has never lost a base to BRAC.

In my view Congress itself should decide which bases to close, based on input from the Pentagon.

Given the current War on Terror, I certainly see no need for BRAC again in 2005 as proposed. However, if a BRAC round comes, I can assure you that your Congressional delegation stands ready to make sure that Mississippi remains undefeated against BRAC, and that base closure and realignment is focused overseas, as it should be.

Since the last BRAC round, the missions of Mississippi's bases have been diversified, and their facilities have been dramatically modernized. Keesler Air Force Base, Gulfport's Seabee Base, Meridian Naval Air Station, Columbus Air Force Base, Pascagoula Naval Station, Camps Shelby and McCain - each of our Mississippi bases plays an ever expanding role in our nation's defense. Mississippi continues to welcome military men and women with open arms, providing good places to train, to live and to expand our bases. For example, right now Biloxi city leaders are working with the Air Force to ensure that highrise hotels and other private development do not interfere with Keesler's longterm access needs. This shows a coveted balance between local industry and the military that is abundant in Mississippi, but elusive or altogether extinct in other parts of the world, especially in Western Europe.

Why should American taxpayers foot a defense bill for nations with diminishing appreciation for America, and with few threats to their security? And, why should we close bases and hurt communities here at home when it is our homeland that is now a target?

These are two questions that BRAC's supporters will undoubtedly try to answer. But domestic base closure at this time remains a very hard sell, and I'm one of the millions of Americans not buying.

Crew -- British TV

The show's crew has filmed in Florida, Spain, Australia and the Caribbean and wanted to branch out in their destinations to some less well traveled places, Davie said. This season they will be filming here, Florida, Los Angeles, Corpus Christi, TX., Tennessee and Oklahoma. Oklahoma?

Davie said there is no rule that says people on the show have to commit to buy any of the property they see. The network pays travel expenses for the couple but do not contribute anything toward the purchase of a home. The network also selects the homes that the couple is shown.

People are usually looking at homes in the $100,000 range, said Davie. They may be looking for a vacation home or a permanent home. Clare and Julian Stevens are here to look for a vacation home for themselves and their two children.

It may sound like fun, but the filming schedule is rigorous and makes for long days.

"It's a lot of work and not really much of a vacation," said Clare Stevens.

She said they all hoped to spend the weekend in New Orleans, though, just having fun. The crew will head home on Wednesday.

Library has employment resources available

Job seekers can turn to the Hancock County Library System for a variety of resources to assist them in finding employment.

National Ad Search, America's help wanted newspaper, is available along with local, state, regional and national newspapers with classified sections.

Library staff can assist job seekers in connecting to numerous employment sites on the Internet.

The library collection has extensive resources on careers, resume writing and preparing for job interviews.

Many books and videos are available to assist in job hunting, financial strategies and the psychological trauma of losing a job.

Typewriters and word processing computers are available at both the Kiln Public Library and the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library for use by the public. The word processing software has a resume and cover letter template built in.

"In light of Alcan Cable dosing, we wanted Alcan employees and other job seekers to know that the library can assist them and their families in many ways during this trying times," said Prima Plauche, library system director.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

On Monday, the Mississippi Beach chapter of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi (PRAM) will welcome Mimi Duncan, public relations manager for celebrity chef Emeril Lagasse's fine dining, kitchenware, food products, and cookbook empire, as featured guest speaker for PRAM's regular monthly meeting.

Ocean Springs native Duncan will detail her celebrity public relations experiences in "Cooking Up Publicity - A Recipe for Success."

Scheduled for noon at the Great Southern Club on the 15th floor of Hancock Bank's downtown Gulfport headquarters, the PRAM meeting includes a lunch buffet opening at 11:30 a.m. and priced at $12.00 for PRAM members; $15.00 non-members.

To reserve limited seating, members and guests should confirm attendance by calling (228) 214-5252 or emailing paul_maxwell@hancock-bank.com before June 9.

A graduate of Loyola University's School of Communications, Duncan began her career in New York coordinating media interviews and ghost-writing a weekly syndicated fashion and beauty column for CNN's Elsa Klensch.

She also served as an account supervisor for the Manhattan public relations firm LaForce & Stevens, managing press relations and event planning for clients such as House & Garden magazine, GQ magazine, and Krispy Kreme Doughnuts.

In 2001, Duncan returned to New Orleans to Emeril's Homebase, where she manages media relations for the company's restaurants in New Orleans, Las Vegas, Orlando and soon, Atlanta and Miami - and coordinates publicity for Emeril's extensive food and products lines.

PRAM membership comprises some of South Mississippi's most accomplished public relations, marketing, advertising, and communications specialists and includes affiliation with the Southern Public Relations Federation. PRAM-Mississippi Beach meets the second Monday of each month at noon in the Great Southern Club.

DMR reminds boaters to keep safety in mind

With the summer months upon us, more boaters will be testing the warm waters of the season. The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) would like to remind boaters to keep safety in mind before embarking on any summer boating fun.

"Common courtesy and common sense go hand in hand when dealing with boating safety," said DMR Boat and Water Safety Director Frank Wescovich. "Remember to wear your lifejacket: they float you don't."

The DMR Boat and Water Safety Bureau offers these tips for safe boating:

1. FIRST AND FOREMOST, WEAR YOUR LIFE JACKET! The number one cause of death on the water is drowning. The majority of persons who drown are not wearing a lifejacket. The DMR strongly recommends that you wear your life jacket. Mississippi law requires that you must have a wearable personal flotation device (PFD) for each person onboard your vessel while it is in use. It also requires that children 12 years and younger wear this PFD while onboard vessels less than 26 feet long while the vessel is in use. The law also requires that a PFD must be worn while operating or riding on a personal watercraft (PWC).

2. KNOW YOUR BOAT AND ITS CAPABILITIES. Many accidents result from boats being used in a manner that is beyond their capability. DON'T OVERLOAD THE BOAT! Maximum capacity of persons and maximum motor size is found on your vessel's capacity plate. Tailor the size of your boat to how and where you expect to use it. Keep your small aluminum johnboat in the small rivers and bays. Don't venture out into unprotected waters where conditions can suddenly change.

Afternoon summer squalls are normal in this region and can pop up with little or no warning. Remember, you can head out with a fair wind at your back and have a pretty safe and comfortable ride. Only when you turn around to head in do you realize that the wind and sea conditions are more than you bargained for.

3. HAVE YOUR BOAT PROPERLY EQUIPPED. Make sure that your necessary equipment and supplies are onboard. Properly maintained and up to date. Just because you had an item onboard last year and it looked OK, doesn't mean that someone didn't remove it since then or that it didn't expire or go bad. Visual distress flares are items that frequently fall into this category.

They may look as good as new, and in all reality would probably function just as well, but they do have an expiration date that must be adhered to.

4. MAKE SURE YOUR BOAT IS READY FOR YOUR FIRST TRIP OF THE SEASON. Don't venture out on a long offshore voyage before checking out the boat in a safe area closer to shore. Remember, fuel that has set idle for several months during the winter ran and usually will cause problems for your engine. It is recommended that a good brand of fuel stabilizer be added to your tank before the winter lay-up. This will help to keep harmful deposits from forming in your fuel system. An empty tank or almost empty tank is just about a sure bet to develop condensation due to temperature variation. This condensation will wreak havoc with your fuel system. Good fresh gas is your best bet for a safe voyage.

5. KNOW THE WEATHER. Keep abreast of the latest forecasts. Don't get caught unprepared. A little research and planning will pay off in the long run and make for a happier and more comfortable voyage. Weather conditions can change very quickly. Be prepared for these changes and know what steps to take if you are caught in an uncomfortable situation.

6. FILE A FLOATPLAN. Before going out on a vessel it is always a good idea to leave a float plan with a local marina, relative or friend. A float plan should: describe the vessel, its number, size, make, capacity, horsepower and type of engine; list where you are going. The route and your expected return time; and give the number of passengers, their names and addresses, and a contact in case of an emergency.

7. HAVE SOME FORM OF RELIABLE COMMUNICATIONS. VHF radio or cellular phone is the recommended communication device. CB radios will work, but are not quite as reliable. Local maritime agencies do not monitor CB on a regular basis. If venturing offshore, a weather radio receiver is recommended.

These are just a few Safety tips. For more in-depth information or other questions or to enroll in a free boat and water safety course, please contact the DMR Bureau of Boat and Water Safety at (228) 432-2820.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. ## McNelis &amp; University of Memphis high on Hancock High School's Devin Necaise

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Former Hancock Lady Hawks basketball star Devin Necaise has left Hancock County to enroll in the University of Memphis and continue her basketball career under the tutelage of head coach Joye Lee-McNelis.

Coach McNelis was a former star player for the Lady Hawks and the University of Southern Mississippi before she entered the coaching ranks. Coach McNelis has been coaching women's basketball for 22 years and Necaise is her first signee from her alma mater. McNelis stated, "I am very excited about the opportunity to coach a player from Hancock County. Devin Necaise has tremendous drive to excel in the game of basketball. She has an outstanding family that supports her in everything she does. I expect her work ethic will shine here for the Lady Tigers. She will out-work players and push for playing time and make a difference in our team. I am very excited about helping her achieve her dream."

Necaise is expected to push for playing time this year as a freshman at the point guard and two-guard positions. McNelis stated that she will use Necaise at both positions on the court depending upon the situation of the game.

According to McNelis, what really separated Necaise from others were the intangible things that don't show up on a stat sheet. Necaise's heart to make herself better and her leadership on the floor are what is most noticeable.

McNelis continued, "The intangible stats are her best stuff. Her leadership and heart are most noticeable. She is a steal because of her passion for the game. We will ask her to just play solid, not anything spectacular. It will be an adjustment for her to come to Division I basketball but her work ethic will bring her through it."

Necaise will enter the first summer school term at the University of Memphis and take two classes in math and english. Starting on Monday, June 9, the players will begin strength and conditioning training at 6am. The team will also have individual skill assessments to complete on their own during the summer. The Lady Tigers will not begin team practice until late September.

Necaise stated, "I am excited and nervous about going. But, it is time to go away and begin something new. I will take two classes this summer while participating in the strength and conditioning training. I know that if I work hard good things will happen. I know one of the other players entering with me - Charity Egenti. We played AAU ball together in the summer. As I head to Memphis, I want to sincerely thank everyone who has helped me throughout my high school career. I would not have this opportunity if it were not for these special people."

Boston, Sy graduate MS Med Center

Dr. Ponjola Coney, the first graduate of the University of Mississippi Medical Center (UMC) to become dean of a U.S. medical school, told 347 graduates during commencement ceremonies Friday, May 23:

"Never forget your humanity,"

In her speech at UMC's 47th commencement, the dean of the School of Medicine at Meharry Medical College in Nashville returned to her alma mater taking stock of her history and "the meaning of life." In this medical era of unparalleled learning and technology, Coney's speech -- titled "Reality of a Dream" -- challenged graduates to make their careers ones "that command hard work, strength of character, ethical behavior and a conscience."

"Do not waste an opportunity to be creative and pioneering, but maintain your integrity and compassion."

Degrees were conferred on physicians, dentists, research scientists, nurses and other health professionals.

Eleven retiring faculty members also were recognized.

Khayat highlighted the Medical Center and Ole Miss' "momentous year" and summed up the nine-year administration of "my friend" Conerly, who is retiring June 30.

"As the years pass," Khayat said, "I believe Dr. Conerly's legacy will be clarified: His work has laid the foundation for a medical center that occupies the top ranks in the field of medicine and medical research. Under Dr. Conerly's tireless, brilliant and dynamic leadership, we are now well prepared to broaden our scope of understanding research, teaching and healing."

Conerly will be succeeded July 1 by Dr. Daniel W. Jones, associate vice chancellor for health affairs, "whom I have come to respect and admire greatly," Khayat added.

Diplomas presented included:

* In the School of Medicine, 103 graduates received the doctor of medicine degree (M.D.).

* In the School of Dentistry, 22 graduates earned the doctor of dental medicine degree (D.M.D.).

* In the School of Nursing, 85 graduates received the bachelor of science in nursing degree (B.S.N.), including 30 with advanced standing.

Twenty-four earned the master of science in nursing degree (M.S.N.).

* In the School of Health Related Professions (SHRP), 92 graduates received degrees. The master's in physical therapy (M.P.T.) was awarded to 25 graduates.

The bachelor of science degree (B.S.) was awarded to 21 in occupational therapy, 17 in dental hygiene, 12 in clinical laboratory science, 10 in health information management, six in cytotechnology, and one in clinical health science.

* The School of Graduate Studies in the Health Sciences presented the doctorate degree (Ph.D.) to 15 graduates -- including four in pharmacology/toxicology, three in nursing, three in clinical health sciences, two in microbiology, two in anatomy and one in preventive medicine. Six also received the master of science degree (M.S.) -- including three in preventive medicine, two in pathology and one in maternal/fetal medicine.

Thirty seven students completed certification program training -- including 20 in radiologic technology, seven in nuclear medicine technology, six in emergency medical technology (E.M.T.)

paramedics, and four in advanced diagnostic imaging.

As graduates crossed the stage to receive their degrees, the most coveted honors were announced. Winners of the highest academic awards in graduates' respective schools -- as well as summa cum laude and magna cum laude -- were revealed. Some 335 students actually participated in the ceremonies.

The five students who received top honors were:

* Courtney McIntyre Robbins of West Point, the School of Medicine's winner of the Waller S. Leathers Award, which goes to the medical student with the highest academic average over four years.

* Richard Lee Simpson of Kosciusko, the School of Dentistry's winner of the Wallace V Mann Award, which goes to the dental student with the highest academic average over four years.

* Susan Dawn Inchcombe of Carthage, who won the Christine L. Oglevee Memorial Award as the outstanding School of Nursing baccalaureate graduate.

DuPont -- feds at odds

in emissions from the plant and will now be adding more information to the groundwater study.

The DEQ is currently testing fish from the Bay for evidence of high levels of dioxin contamination. Dioxins are not uncommon in low levels in the environment and can be formed by such activities as burning trash. The meeting was poorly attended, but those that were there seemed well informed and ready to press their point. Too many people in the community are sick; they are not satisfied with ATSDR's conclusions; they are not happy with the sources of the data used to reach those conclusions and they want more answers.

Health Scientist James Durant did his best to answer the tough questions thrown at him during the evening, but Health Communication Specialist Rose Jackson and Regional Representative Carl Blair were clearly agitated by the barrage of questions.

Durant stuck by study conclusions that said that deep injection wells were not polluting groundwater at community well levels.

"The question is whether they are polluting groundwater and the answer is an unequivocal yes," said Durant. "The wells are contaminating water at 10,000 feet."

He said that contaminated material was deposited so far into the earth that he was confident that the material could not migrate back up through the strata layers to ground water used for drinking water in the area.

But he went on to say that one of the wells did develop a leak in 1996 and that the contaminated material was migrating upward. Data showed that the contaminated material reached the Tuscaloosa Layer, Durant said, which is a layer of sand and shale still deep underground. Durant said the well was capped underground and re-drilled from that point down to another location.

Henderson Point resident Jeffrey Gregoire said family members had recently purchased a home just outside the DuPont plant in DeLisle and he was concerned about the possibility of groundwater contamination. He said that he was mainly concerned with the groundwater contamination under the plant that could be migrating out of plant boundaries.

Durant said he understood the contamination to be at a depth of about 20 feet.

"How do we know for sure that the contamination is only at 20 feet," Gregoire said. "How do we know for sure that it is not at 200 feet or 400 feet?"

Durant said the contamination under the plant was not migrating toward area wells but rather toward the Bay of St. Louis.

"It hasn't reached the Bay yet," said Durant. As far as the EPA knows it hasn't moved out of the plant boundaries. It is moving toward the Bay, but it isn't there yet."

"So the contamination is moving south," asked Gregoire.

"Not migrating south, but southeast," said Durant. "Because there is a river there that affects the migration."

Durant said that the DuPont Plant regularly monitors community water wells in Pass Christian, Bay St. Louis and Diamondhead to make sure that contamination has not entered drinking water.

In response to Gregoire's question as to how the groundwater under the plant became contaminated, Durant said that one of the sources was a barrow pit on the plant site where contaminated material was deposited. Another source came from a deep injection well that blew up, he said.

Gregoire asked that more data be added to the groundwater study, including a map of exactly where the contamination under the plant was located. He also asked for an extension of the public comment period which Durant extended until July 9.

DuPont DeLisle officials have maintained that they are in no way responsible for what local residents are saying are a rash of serious illnesses. More than 2,000 people are involved in a law suit against the plant which alleges that toxic waste from the plant is responsible for illnesses. The health department has said that it has found no disease clusters, but Durant said on Thursday that it is very difficult if not impossible to prove or disprove reports of disease clusters.

"If you say there is a high rate of illness we believe you," said Durant, reiterating an earlier statement. "But it may be impossible to draw a scientific conclusion as to what is causing the problem."

A copy of the initial report is on file at the Pass Christian Library as are forms for written comments. More public meetings will be announced as studies are completed. For more information call 1-888-422-8737 and mention the DuPont DeLisle health consultation.

Favre

Favre's comments came in response to assertions by Compretta that the city didn't communicate adequately with the state Legislature to get the money the city hoped to get.

Although the city's share of the annual appropriation was $150,000 in bills that passed the House and Senate, it's unclear how or why that sum got slashed to $50,000 in a conference committee. Compretta was not on that committee, and he said in an interview that he doesn't know how the sum was cut.

But, he said the city didn't press its case for the appropriation as well as Hancock County pushed for $200,000 to upgrade the Washington Street Pier. "My suggestion is for the city to be in better communication with the legislators," said Compretta. "No one from the city contacted me."

The mayor took issue with that. "I think Mr. Compretta was well aware of our application," said Favre. "First, I would assume as a legislator voting on a bill that came out of the House, he was aware of our application involving $150,000."

"Communications were had," said Favre. "It's one of those unfortunate things that we ended up on the short end of the stick."

Favre said the city did nothing differently this year than in past years to shepherd its request for Tidelands money through the Legislative process. "We did nothing different. We did it the same way it's always been done. We've never had any troubles in the past."

There was "no more contact and no less" with legislators this year, Favre said. "So what happened this time? Who knows? I've got some ideas."

But the mayor declined to speculate publicly on those thoughts.

He plans to ask the Department of Marine Resources to give the city some additional "discretionary" funds to fill the appropriations gap.

Meanwhile, what the city wants to do with its Tidelands money is evolving. From two prior years appropriations, Bay St. Louis has bankrolled $400,000 to go with the new $50,000. Originally, the city wanted to use the money to increase parking and other amenities at the Jimmy Rutherford Fishing Pier.

But intense public opposition to beachfront parking ideas caused the city to rethink its direction. Now, city officials hope to buy a surface parking lot next to the Fire Dog Saloon, and the beachfront lot that goes with it.

The city would establish a new beach access for the public, and perhaps build a two- or three-story parking garage on the surface lot. Other ideas include building a boardwalk to connect the downtown business area and the Washington Street Pier facility.

All the Tidelands money at issue, however, is legally tied to the city's former desire to upgrade the Rutherford Pier.

Department of Marine Resources officials, as well as the Legislature, will have to agree before the money can be redirected to the new parking plan.

Favre said he hopes to work with Compretta and State Sen. Scottie Cuevas "from the get-go" to redirect the money. "Therefore, if there was a lack of communications before, there definitely won't be on this one."

RYAN

WATCH

BY SHANNON JENKINS
STAFF WRITER

Call me biased, but I believe Ryan Chotto deserved a spot as one of the 12 finalists on NBC's new reality series Fame.

Chotto, an 18-year-old Diamondhead native, was among six contestants in Los Angeles on Wednesday's show who sang and danced in front of a panel of judges. Unfortunately, he was among the three that were cut.

His singing and dancing upstaged fellow competitors Todd Evans, Michelle Livigne and Brandon O'Neal. Evans and Livigne were cut with Chotto while O'Neal made it to the finals.

O'Neal, a 16-year-old California native, gave a mediocre performance of dancing and singing. He even did "something weird" at the end of his song, according to judge Carnie Wilson, a member of the defunct pop group Wilson Phillips.

Although his performance didn't win me over, O'Neal impressed the judges, who also included Jo Jo Wright (a Los Angeles radio personality) and Johnny Wright (who has managed pop groups NSYNC and the Backstreet Boys).

Chotto, however, owned the stage with his flawless dance moves. His singing was much more impressive than O'Neal's. He even landed a backflip and launched right back into song without missing a beat.

His true competitors, however, were Serena Henry and Jamisen Tiango, who both made it to the finals with O'Neal. Henry, a 20-year-old from Nevada, and Tiango, a 22-year-old from Miami, showed the makings of pop stars.

Although Chotto won't be a star on Fame, he'll achieve stardom somewhere else. He is now back in New York, where he is still working as a dancer for pop singer Chris Trousdale, a gig he landed last fall after moving there.

"Working with Debbie Allen and her crew was an experience in itself," Chotto said. "Having her work with me one-on-one and sharing her knowledge will help me in the future."

Chotto said performing in front of millions of viewers on national television was a once in a lifetime moment.

"This exposure will definitely help my career," he said.

His experience, of course, was bittersweet.

(Above) Pearlington resident Oscar Breland was the principal at the Logtown school when Senator John C. Stennis made his famous speech there from the back of a flatbed trailer. People were given two years to leave their old lives behind and begin again.

(Right) This map shows Hancock County as it was, before Stennis Space Center and its surrounding buffer zone came to the area forcing thousands of residents to give up their homes. Napoleonville was between Gainesville and Logtown and Westonla was in the southern part of the county near old Hwy. 43. For some reason they are not on this map.

The Woodmen

Mr. La Violette is taking two months off to promote his new book, Sink or be Sunk. In his absence we are publishing a series of his early stories on sailing in the Mississippi Sound. We hope you enjoy them.

"Paul, I found some wood on the beach."

These are words I dread most to hear from Stella. Finding wood meant she found "firewood" and that we should go get it.

However, finding wood on the beach meant she found "FIREWOOD" and (because the sea salts in the wood give the flames pretty colors) it was wood we absolutely had to get.

Only that day it wasn't that bad. The wood was not far down the beach from us and it was not logs from some tree, but several pieces of lumber, actually 2x6's, from someone's pier.

"Stella, we can't burn these, they're treated. When treated wood burns, it gives off toxic fumes." She looked disappointed. "But they're nice pieces of wood," I said. "Help me carry them back to the house and I'll make some benches for the porch."

The two of us carried the wood back and put it on the porch. Since there was still time in the afternoon, I started getting the tools out to make the benches. Stella went back inside to fix supper.

"Whatcha making, Uncle Paul?" It was Henry.

"Some benches for the porch," I told him. "There is exactly enough wood here to make two benches four and half feet long. Give me a hand and I'll have them done by supper." He did, and we quickly cut the long seat boards for each of the benches.

"This is good looking wood, Paul."

"It is," I agreed and I picked up a piece and sniffed it. "You know, I think I was wrong, I don't think it's treated. It smells like it may be cedar." Soon we had the crosspieces made for the seat boards and while Henry started

In the summer of 1961, residents of the small communities dotting what is now the Stennis Space Center and Buffer Zone had no idea that their lives were about to change forever, though the decision had already been made for them. Rumors of strange men who were scouting the area for a place to test rocket engines were dismissed as absurd, even as the Corps of Engineers quietly gathered information about land values for use by NASA.

In October, people listened in shocked disbelief as the announcement came nonchalantly over the afternoon radio news that their homes, land, businesses, their past and their future were to be seized by eminent domain by the federal government. In their place would be a new Federal City which would house NASA's new rocket testing facility.

Oscar and Truman Breland had lived in Logtown close to ten years when the announcement came. The family had moved to the area from Caesar, where both Truman and Oscar had lived all their lives.

In 1953, Oscar took over at the school as principal, 7th and 8th grade teacher, basketball coach and maintenance man.

"You name it, he did it," said Truman.

What is history?

Surely, it is more than statistics and dates that are recorded in a book. To many, history is the remembrances of the people who were there and those memories may be as similar or as varied as the people themselves. For many of the communities that were once in Hancock County, Log Town, Santa Rosa, Gainesville, Napoleon, Stevenson, and Westonla, the memories of the people who were there are all we have to remind us of what once was a vital part of local life.

At 86, Oscar has signs of Alzheimer's and so his memory is not what it once was.

"He thinks a lot, but he doesn't talk a lot any more," said Truman.

But there is one memory that is clear in Oscar's mind and that is the day that to nail them to the seats, I started to cut the short legs.

As I began to make my cuts, Lee showed up. I told him what we were making.

"Well" he said eyeing the wood critically. "If you're going to use it out here on the porch, you need to use brass screws to keep them from warping and protect them from the weather."

"I don't have brass screws. All I have are these galvanized nails and we'll toenail them in, so they won't pull out."

"Okay, that's a good idea. But look, Henry," -- Henry was about to hammer the seat boards onto the cross pieces, -- "make sure you nail everything from the bottom up. Don't nail the seat boards to the cross pieces. Nail the cross pieces to the seats."

Henry looked at Lee for a moment, then flipped the boards over and started to nail them the way he had instructed. Meanwhile, I had finished cutting the legs and was starting on the cross pieces to hold them

Ramey Foundation will be accepting scholarship applications through Sept. 15

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Tommy Ramey Foundation is accepting scholarship applications for the spring 2004 semester, and due to the overall success of the inaugural campaign last year, will award two additional scholarships.

"We will continue to work toward increasing the number and size of the scholarships each year," said Bill Ray, CEO of BankPlus and chairman of the Foundation. "Tommy would be elated watching the program grow and knowing his foundation was helping students receive a quality education."

This year the Foundation awarded two scholarships totaling $5,000. In 2004 the Foundation will award four scholarships totaling $10,000: $2,500 award to two students of marketing and $2,500 award to two students of the culinary arts.

For the spring 2004 semester, each applicant must:

- Have a minimum 2.5 GPA.
- Be a resident of the state of Mississippi.
- Be enrolled as a full-time student at an accredited college, university, junior college or trade school.
- Be enrolled in marketing or related field (business, advertising, communications, public relations, journalism, graphic design, etc.) or culinary arts or related field (travel/tourism/hotel/restaurant management, food production, etc.).

• Attach a list of student activities, such as clubs, professional or civic organizations or particular extracurricular activities.

• Submit application and essay by September 15, 2003.

The Foundation's scholarship board will select the finalists, conduct interviews with them in November of 2003 and choose the winners by year-end. Each recipient must be enrolled as a fulltime student in the semester that the scholarship is awarded. All scholarships will be paid directly to the college or university.

"The primary goal of the foundation is to provide scholarship aid to students studying marketing and the culinary arts," said Jim Garrison, COO of The Ramey Agency and board member of the Foundation. "We want to let parents and students know about the scholarships so they can get an early start on the application process."

The first two scholarship recipients of the Tommy Ramey Foundation were announced earlier this year during an evening ceremony held at The Ramey Agency to commemorate the first anniversary of the foundation.

The Tommy Ramey Foundation introduced its annual scholarship program in November of 2001. The program extends support to the development of outstanding, young professionals and ensures Ramey's memory and philanthropic spirit live on for generations to come.

As the founder and president of The Ramey Agency, an advertising and marketing firm based in Jackson, Ramey left his mark on not only the Mississippi advertising community, but also everyone who encountered his larger-than-life personality. He passed away in October of 1999.

The Tommy Ramey Foundation Board of Directors are Bill Ray, CEO, BankPlus (chairman); Fred Carl, CEO, Viking Range Corporation; Steve Edds, attorney, McGlinchey Stafford; Richard Rehfeldt, attorney at law; Jim Garrison, COO, The Ramey Agency; and Chris Ray, CEO, The Ramey Agency. Peggy Harris, mother of Tommy Ramey, serves as the honorary chairperson of the Foundation.

Making P.A.L.S at East Hancock

PALS (People Assuming Leadership in Schools) is a component of the reading program at East Hancock Elementary. Since the first-grade children are beginning readers, it is very important that they practice reading. In order to accomplish more practice time, EHE has reached out to the senior citizens, parents and businessmen in the community.

Starting in March, members of the community spent half an hour every Friday reading with a first-grade PAL.

The community member arrives at school, picks up a bag of books, gets their first-grade PAL and travels to the café/library where they can read together.

The adult reads aloud from a difficult book and the child reads aloud from an easier book. This process is repeated for half an hour.

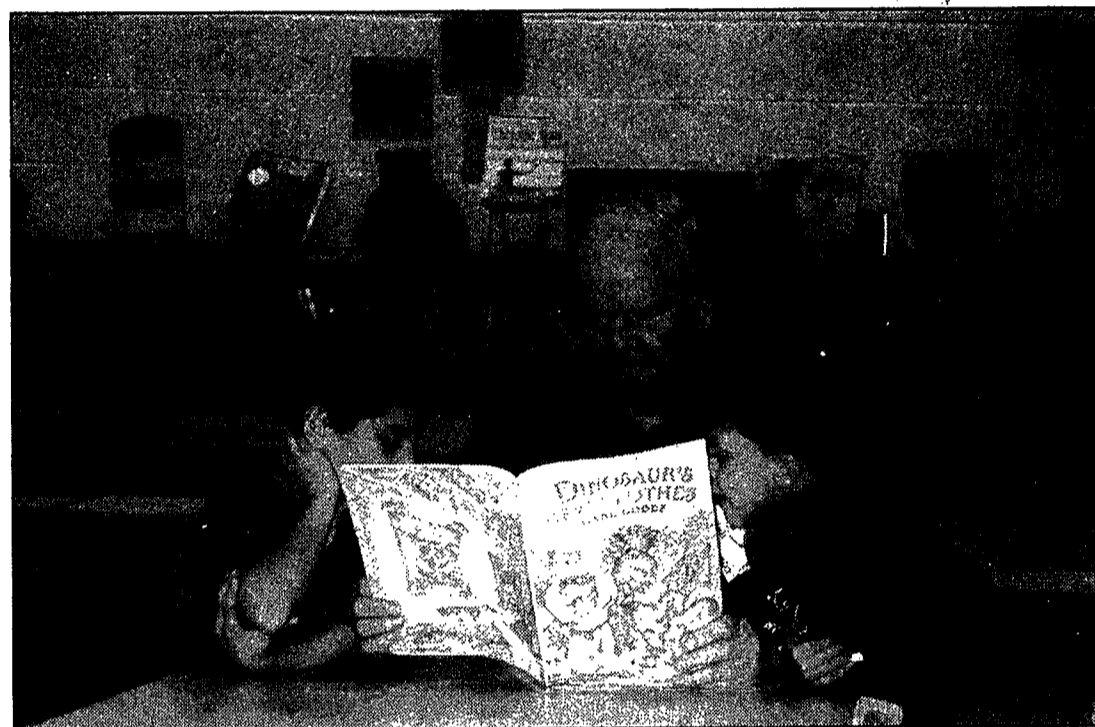

The children looked forward to meeting with their PAL every Friday until May. A popsicle party concluded the three-month activity.

This partnership has motivated students, increased practice time, created a positive reading experience, developed a love of reading, provided another reading model and connected a child to a community member.

Each year the number of PALS has increased allowing us to go from a 4:1 ratio to 2:1 ratio. EHE's goal is to have a PAL for every first grade child.

Participants in the PALS program use the library.

Chotto -- Fame

"The hardest part of Fame was having to leave," he said. "Being eliminated was hard, but everything happens for a reason."

Leaving his new friends was also difficult. Chotto said he not only made friendships with his fellow cast members, but with the crew as well.

Despite leaving the show and new friends, Chotto looks at his time on Fame as a positive experience.

"Being one of 24 (contestants) was an honor," he said. "I was able to show everyone what I have to offer and what I love to do."

His mother, Trina Cuccia, agreed about Fame's impact on her son.

"Fame was a great experience for him," Cuccia said. "It was a wonderful opportunity for Ryan to work with Debbie Allen."

Cuccia said she was very proud of her son, who has accomplished so much since moving to New York last fall.

"It's just a matter of time before he gets his break," she said. "He hasn't even been in New York for a year, and he's already getting all these opportunities. I'm proud of him."

Egos can cost lives

"It's an ego thing," observed John Volz, former Attorney General of the state of Louisiana. "Every police chief of every jurisdiction thinks he can do any job unaided better than anyone else. That is why murder cases get very muddled and inefficient when they run into various jurisdictions. You really need the FBI to take over and coordinate everything as only they can."

Reflections on Life
by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

A troubling number of policemen and detectives past and present called in to talk shows, identifying themselves by name and location, and confirming in more or less the same words what John Volz had said. The various heads of jurisdictions run into turf jealousy, ego culture and credit-taking.

Referring to the Louisiana serial killer, one ex-police-man expressed his extreme dismay that the fact/evidence-seeking task force said, "Thanks but no thanks!" to a number of local and national serial killer investigation experts who offered their services free of charge. They even turned down free offers from multi-experienced detectives from Scotland and England. Pray tell, to use gross understatement, what harm could these most outstanding criminal experts in the world do to a puzzling investigation which had led up and down nothing but blind alleys?

Adding insult to injury, the task force ignored and/or failed to follow up on a number of hot tips concerning other murders or disappearances which, as it turned out, would have led to a much earlier apprehension of the murder suspect. Some of these tips went back months, a couple of them even years.

The difference, clearly, in this evaluation is a matter of at least a handful of women whose lives were grossly, unnecessarily sacrificed on the ugly altar of turf jealousy, ego-tripping and hungry credit-taking. How can any of us defer or even refuse help from people better experienced and qualified?

This affliction I call the apostle complex which repeatedly asks the following questions: "Who's on first?" "Who is the most important?" "Who is the head honcho in this operation?" The apostles displayed this complex for the entire three years of the public life of Jesus. The spiritual illness persisted right into Communion at the Last Supper, as we see in Luke 22:24.

Unfortunately, our American bishops got a nasty taste of their own brand of the apostle complex as they held on to power as long as they could in the deadly face of resolute lay opposition to their musical chairs treatment of inveterate alcoholics and child

It is a curious quirk of nature that the apostle complex, so evident in the first princes of the Church, would be snapped up so readily by the bishops, our present-day Church princes, and just as easily by criminal investigators who have no professional connections whatever with the Church.

Once a DNA sample in Louisiana established a positive link between murder suspect Derrick Todd Lee and at least five slain women, angry calls bombarded talk shows as to why the police and the task force committee had ignored hot leads and tips reaching back months and even years.

The serpentine trail of destruction moves beyond Church princes and criminal sleuths to megabusinesses which have imploded with thunderous rumblings as egos of CEOs and accountants conspired to plunge superrich businesses into a financial quagmire of red ink and disappearing assets.

The ego culture sideshow moves on to the political stage where it becomes a state-of-the-art spectacle. Cooperation between jurisdictions, professional courtesy, a willingness to share others' expertise for the good of the people are things which do happen, but they are often conspicuous by their absence.

Democrats, Independents and Republicans might just be criminal sleuths.

And make no mistake about it. It is not just Church princes, bumbling CEOs and criminal sleuths who fall victim to the apostle complex. To an annoying extent, we all do. I am a personal witness that petty jealousies and envies, ego culture and the craving for being given credit have imploded a scary number of church choirs, in addition to others I simply heard about.

Sad to say, I am likewise a witness to the demolition of certain church organizations, supposedly committed to serve, but unhappily snarled in the tentacles of the apostle complex. Even though they refer to themselves as a ministry, they keep asking: Who, really, is the greatest?

Who's in control? Turf jealousy, greedy ego-tripping and credit-grabbing are the exact opposite of what the Master tells us to be. Repeatedly, he jumped his apostles for wanting the places of honor at various functions, for coveting titles and recognition as outstanding people, and just not wanting to serve.

"When you have done all you have been commanded, say 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done what we were obliged to do.'" (Luke 17:10)

Egos can be ugly little things lethal to human relationships, organizations and even to life itself, as in allowing murder suspects to roam free. Our choice can only be to use our ego to serve, heal and cheer as the Master did.

The "Word" for the Week

The Gospel and our sins

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

A popular movie about a ghost ends when a banker dies and is shuffled off into a frightening eternity by a host of clamoring dark spirits.

But the ghost of the story goes off into an eternity of love and happiness. These two characters represent two kinds of people. There are actually two kinds of people in the real world.

The Bible tells the story of these two kinds of people. It tells us that, after Adam and Eve fell into sin, God promised to send a Savior into the world.

The Bible then goes on to tell the story of how that Savior, Jesus Christ, died on a cross to "save His people from their sins" (Matthew 1:21).

The Bible also explains how the Holy Spirit of God gives new hearts to people to enable them to love and obey God. But the Bible also tells us that when history ends, there will still only be two kinds of people. There will be those who have loved and followed the promised Savior.

There will be those who have rejected Him.

At the end of the world, Christ will come again. Every human being who ever lived will stand before Him. "He will separate them from one another as the shepherd separates the sheep from the goats" (Matthew 25:32).

To one group of people, Christ will say, "Come, you who are blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

But to those who have rejected the death of Christ on the cross as the only payment for sin, Christ will say these awesome words, "Depart from Me, accursed ones, into the eternal fire which has been prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matthew 25:34 & 35).

You see, there are only two kinds of people. The question is, what kind of person are you?

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Our first parents who rebelled against God's instruction brought a condition into mankind called "a fallen nature."

The first born child of Adam and Eve; Cain killed his brother Abel because of envy and jealousy. The Bible has much to say about people rebelling under the influence of that "fallen nature."

The laws of God are broken because mankind wants its own way. That's why the Ten Commandments are seldom kept. People just want to do their own thing.

Even a small child inherits this "fallen nature." You don't have to teach a child to scream and go into a temper tantrum. Children, like adults, want their own way.

So what can be done about getting this fallen nature out of us? Nothing we can do. God is the only way we can off set this self-centered nature. God's spirit, when invited to come into our "being" will come and balance out our condition to a normal and proper thinking.

Surely one can see that fallen condition operating in the world today. Violence, sex orgies, substance abuse, hatred towards one another deficient against government, and the list goes on and on.

Romans the eighth chapter verses 15-25 will bare these truths out.

The spirit is willing, the flesh is weak. Than God for Jesus Christ who is able and willing to handle this "fallen nature" in such a way it won't rule our lives.

Bouchereau named director of St. Stanislaus Community

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Brother Carl Bouchereau, S.C., will take over as religious director of the 20 member community of Brothers of the Sacred Heart on the St. Stanislaus campus effective July 1, 2003. He will replace Brother Xavier Werneth, S.C., who is completing a nine-year term in that position.

Since 1999 Brother Carl has been director of the Brothers' community in New Orleans attached to the Brother Martin High School campus on Elysian Fields Avenue. Before that he served as the religious superior of the Brothers' community in Thibodaux, Louisiana, while working as guidance counselor at E. D. White Catholic High School.

A native of Donaldsonville, Louisiana, Brother Carl, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd and Lillian Bouchereau, Sr., graduated from Ascension Catholic High School in Donaldsonville before joining the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. After his novitiate in Belvidere, New Jersey, he returned South and obtained his bachelor of art's degree in Education and French at Spring Hill College in Mobile, Alabama. His first year of teaching was at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis in 1969. In 1973 he pronounced his final vows as a religious in the chapel at St. Stanislaus.

After about ten years of

Bro. Carl Bouchereau

classroom teaching, mainly at Brother Martin High in New Orleans, Br. Carl, having earned a master's degree in Guidance from Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska, began counseling students at Catholic High School in Baton Rouge, where he remained for eleven years.

Over the past twenty years, Brother Carl has participated in several religious enrichment programs sponsored by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart on a national and international level. One of these involved a semester in Rome in 1991 and another a summer in Lyons, France, in 1996. Thus, Brother Carl will bring a wide variety of experience to his new position as religious director of the St. Stanislaus community which he looks forward to with enthusiasm. In addition to his responsibilities in the residence, Brother Carl will be working in the school's Guidance Department.

For his part, Brother Xavier looks forward to his new assignment at Catholic High School in Baton Rouge where he will do supervision of instruction and teach several classes. After more than 25 years in administration both in this country and in Rome, Brother Xavier says that he will enjoy getting back into teaching which has always been his first love.

In other changes affecting the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, Mississippi, Brother Ronald Talbot, S.C., president of St. Stanislaus College, will also assume responsibilities as religious superior of the five member community that has been living in Waveland. Br. Ronald Talbot has recently returned from a semester-long religious enrichment program in Rome. Brother Adrian Gaudin, S.C., who is completing a seven year term as director of the Waveland community, will remain at St. Stanislaus as a member of the Guidance Department.

During the summer, the small community of Brothers in Waveland will relocate to a house at 114 Bookter Street near St. Stanislaus. The house in Bay St. Louis is presently being renovated by the Province of New Orleans in order to accommodate the community of five Brothers. The large residence at 109 Bookter Street on the St. Stanislaus campus was completely renovated in 1998 to accommodate the special needs of elderly and retired Brothers who constitute a significant part of that community.

For the last two years, Springfield could be seen in Las Vegas at the MGM Grand Hotel's "EFX Alive," a special effects laden music and theatre show. Springfield took over the show's central role in January 2001 from former "Partridge Family" teen idol David Cassidy.

Although Springfield is working on new CD now, his latest album is also his first live recording from his 1999 concert tour called "Rick Springfield Alive - Greatest Hits Live." He had six albums before his live effort including his multi-platinum "Working Class Dog." Yet (1982), "Living In Oz" (1983), "Hard To Hold" "Success Hasn't Spoiled Me Soundtrack (1984), "Tao"

Rick Springfield

(1985), "Rock Of Life" (1988), and "Karma" which was released in 1998. He has written and performed some of the most enduring pop music of the '80s, sold more than 18,000,000 records, had multi-platinum albums, been nominated for, and won Grammys. He has also earned 17 Top 40 Hits, including five Top 10 hits "Affair Of The Heart," "I've Done Everything For You," "Don't Talk To Strangers," "Love Somebody" and, of course, the number one smash hit "Jessie's Girl."

Singer-songwriter-guitarist Springfield, born in Sydney, Australia enjoyed hits in his native country before moving to America in the early '70s and hitting the American charts in 1972 with "Speak To The Sky." Springfield then started an acting career, although he continued to write and record, and first became a household name playing Dr. Noah Drake on the TV soap opera "General Hospital" in 1981. He has also appeared in such movies as "Dead Reckoning," "With Harmful Intent," and "Hard To Hold."

Now Springfield is back touring for the first time in several years. Don't miss him at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis for one performance only Friday, June 20. Must be 21.

'Hot Rio Nights' burn up the stage

EXTRA SPECIAL

Hot Rio Nights turns up the heat in Beau Rivage Theatre. Beau Rivage announces the arrival of its newest production show "Hot Rio Nights - Direct From Brazil." Running June 3 through Sept. 28, the 1,550-seat Beau Rivage Theatre will sizzle this summer with the exciting new show featuring an all-Brazilian cast.

"Hot Rio Nights" transports the audience to a tropical paradise with sultry Latin rhythms, sexy, high-energy dancing, and vibrant, flamboyant costumes. The show is a cultural experience of Brazil moving throughout different periods of Brazilian history from the native Brazilian period, colonization, through the samba, lambada, and modern period. Meet Brazilian bombshell Carmen Miranda, who conquered the world through American movies and whose love of the country made her the ambassadress of samba and Brazilian customs. Experience Brazilian martial arts with unique acrobatic numbers and enjoy red-hot dance numbers Brazilians made famous.

"Hot Rio Nights" culminates with the Carnival celebration and the parade of the samba schools of Rio de Janeiro. The show takes guests to the heart of Rio, as the talented, energetic ensemble of singers, dancers, and musicians recreate the fun, festive atmosphere that can only be found in the exotic streets of Brazil during Carnival.

"This show comes direct from Brazil," said Mary Cracchiolo, spokeswoman for Beau Rivage. "We pulled the top acts from the top shows now appearing in Rio and produced a show specifically for the Beau Rivage Theatre." Tickets to "Hot Rio Nights" are $19.95 and $24.95 plus tax. Call 228-386-7777 or 888-566-7469 for show times and reservations. ## Celebrity Scoop

Checking in with Christy Carlson Romano

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

On a recent spring day, actress Christy Carlson Romano, a freshman at Barnard College, is taking a much-deserved break. She is meeting her mom in midtown Manhattan for lunch and a bit of shopping, after taping a commercial for Clearasil.

The rest of her day is to be spent cramming in some verbs for her Spanish final and packing her belongings up in preparation for moving to Washington, D.C., for a summer internship with Sen. Christopher Dodd (D-Conn.).

All of this makes her seem like a smart, busy, focused young woman. But to understand how packed her schedule really is, consider that last year Romano became the first actress with three Disney Channel projects. In addition to playing tortured middle sister Ren in the sitcom "Even Stevens" and supplying the lead voice for the animated series "Kim Possible," she starred in the TV movie "Cadet Kelly."

This week, Romano reprises her sitcom role in Disney Channel's "The Even Stevens Movie," premiering Friday, June 13.

At age 19, Romano also has been on stage and in films. She started going on auditions for commercials when she was 6, and by the time she was 8, she was in a national tour of "Will Rogers Follies." She also played at Lincoln Center in "Parade," directed by Hal Prince, whom she calls "awesome."

Carlson first thought she wanted to be a ballerina, but after a couple of years at the School of American Ballet, she was more interested in musical theater and acting.

Much as she loves her career, Romano says, "I'm taking it one step at a time. I'm at school to further myself. Otherwise, I could be working all the time ... I have chosen to go the academic route."

Animal Planet special salutes stars of other species

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Many of TV's most popular shows have had something in common: an animal attraction.

Dogs, cats, dolphins and other species have played important roles over the years, and Animal Planet counts down the top examples in the new two-hour special "50 Greatest TV Animals" Saturday, June 14. From Universal Studios in Orlando, Fla., host Mario Lopez ("Pet Star," "The Other Half") presents clips and related trivia. Any idea how long family dog Tiger was on "The Brady Bunch"? And did you know Gene Autry's horse Champion starred in his own show?

From Lassie to Flipper, many nonhuman television stars - including some who are cartoons (Scooby-Doo, Mighty Mouse) and others who are puppets (Topo Gigio, Kermit) - take their places among their peers.

Also on the list is Eddie, Martin Crane's (John Mahoney) dog on the NBC sitcom "Frasier." The "Cheers" spinoff has just ended its 10th season, meaning a decade of steady employment for dog trainer Mathilde DeCagny of the firm Birds & Animals Unlimited. She reveals Eddie actually has been played by two dogs: Moose, who did the first nine seasons, and now his son, Enzo.

Moose auditioned for the "Frasier" producers as any actor would, DeCagny reports: "We brought in about seven dogs, and the training didn't matter as much as the look and the attitude. They wanted a small-to-medium-sized dog that could fit Martin's image. Usually, the producers want the best-trained dog, but they loved Moose because his colors - brown and white - matched the colors of the 'Frasier' set and because he was a little on the obnoxious side."

Broadway's 'Hairspray' might have a hold on the Tonys

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Behind the stage of the Eugene O'Neill Theatre is a star's dressing room, full of genteel calm and sprays of white delphinium. Here, Antonio Banderas listens to CDs of Spanish classical guitar, and a picture of Jesus shares wall space with a cutout of a bunny made by his daughter, Stella.

It is a place for warming up before performances and unwinding after. Though Banderas is spent after a matinee of "Nine the Musical," he becomes energized, eyes sparkling, as he talks about the theater.

"It's a magical world," he says, breaking into a smile. "Basically, Broadway is different than theater in any other country in the world. All the theaters are together and sometimes it comes to me where we are, right before the curtain goes up, there are a tremendous number of actors about to do what I do."

Banderas does it so well that he has been nominated for a Tony Award for his starring role as Guido Contini, an Italian director plagued by a lack of ideas and a string of failed relationships. Women adore him, and he spends the show draping himself around him. Three of them - Jane Krakowski, Mary Stuart Masterson and Chita Rivera, who play his mistress, his wife and his producer, respectively - are nominated for best performance by a featured actress in a musical.

To see who wins, tune in to CBS Sunday, June 8, for the 57th Annual Tony Awards, airing live from Radio City Music Hall. Hugh Jackman is the host, and Billy Joel will open the show.

In this wildly diverse theater season, which has shows ranging from the opera "La Boheme" to "Russell Sims' Def Poetry Jam" up for awards, the only trend seems to be a celebration of the 1960s. "Movin' Out" is a dance choreographed by Twyla Tharp and set to Billy Joel's music about coming-of-age in the 1960s.

"Nine" is a revival of a musical, based on the 1963 semiautobiographical film "8 1/2" by Federico Fellini. Banderas avoids watching tapes of the late Raul Julia's 1982 interpretation of Contini, saying he intuitively understands the character. "He has a tremendous capacity to love," he says. "That's how he looks at life. He genuinely loves the women."

In addition to playing a sought-after Mediterranean lover, which may not be a tremendous stretch for Banderas, he proves that he can sing, dance and engage an audience without needing multiple takes.

Such all-encompassing talent also shines in a very different musical, "Hairspray." This ode to 1960s Baltimore, dancing, integration and the love between mothers and daughters comes in with a whopping 13 Tony nods. Like "Nine," it has co-stars - Dick Latessa, who plays the dad, and Corey Reynolds, who plays a friend - pitted against each other for best performance by a featured actor in a musical.

It is precisely that sort of competition that turns off Chita Rivera, the grande dame of musical theater. Still in full stage makeup and holding her Maltese, Casper, in her dressing room, Rivera says, "I don't ever think about nominations. I never have ... It throws people into a competitive kind of thing. We are doing our craft and doing it well."

Rivera, who first appeared in the 1952 national tour of "Call Me Madam," made it to Broadway three years later in "Seventh Heaven." She has been in 34 plays, 15 of those on Broadway, and has won two Tonys and received five more nominations.

She is torn over who to root for in the category of best performance by a leading actor in a musical because she adores her co-star, saying she is on "Antonio's adventure," but is close friends with Harvey Fierstein, who plays Edna Turnblad in "Hairspray."

Fierstein, playing the role drag queen Divine originated in John Waters' 1988 movie "Hairspray," is nothing short of a force of nature. With his gravelly voice and a rubber suit added to make him enormous, Fierstein brilliantly sings, tap dances and milks every joke in his role of a loving mother. Though he is in drag, he is not playing her as a man pretending to be a woman, but as a woman.

'Mister Sterling' loses bid for second term

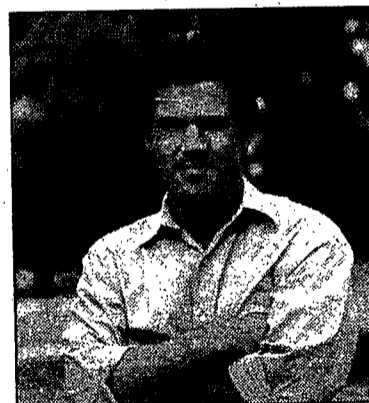

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q "Mister Sterling" became a surprise favorite of mine. What happened to it? - Phyllis Esposito via e-mail.

A NBC ordered only a handful of episodes of Josh Brolin's political drama to test the waters for a possible slot next fall. Sadly, while "Sterling" performed more strongly than "Providence" had in that time period, it apparently wasn't strong enough to please the network, which passed on renewing the show.

The general consensus is that the fall slot that might otherwise have gone to "Mister Sterling" went instead to the surprise renewal of "Ed," a show that really seemed to be wrapping things up with its season finale in April. At least loyal viewers of that show will get to enjoy a season of Ed and Carol (Tom Cavanagh, Julie Bowen) together at last.

Q Does Lauren Lane (C.C. Babcock) sing the title song on "The Nanny"? - Susan Franck, Rapid City, S.D.

A I'm not sure where that odd but incredibly widespread misconception originated, but no: Ann Hampton Callaway wrote "The Nanny Named Fran" and sings it over the opening credits with her sister, Liz Callaway.

Q Where was "The Wonder Years" filmed and what are some of its main cast members doing these days? - Pat S., Topeka, Kan.

A "The Wonder Years" was filmed in and around the greater Los Angeles area. Star Fred Savage (Kevin) recently gave a creepy guest performance as a serial rapist on "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit." Danica McKellar has a recurring role as Elsie Snuffin, Will Bailey's stepsister, on "The West Wing."

You may have caught Alley Mills (Norma) on hand for her magical TV daughter's wedding in the series finale of "Sabrina the Teenage Witch." A frequent TV guest star, Dan Lauria (Jack) played Carol's dad on a couple of episodes of "Ed" and co-stars in the upcoming movie comedy "Jesus, Mary and Joey."

Jason Hervey (Wayne) works mainly as a producer these days, while Josh Saviano (Paul) has left show business.

Weir shoots for second major at U.S. Open

By George Dickie
 © Zap2it

The Masters was supposed to be just another green jacket for Tiger Woods in his pursuit of the record for major championships.

But a funny thing happened on the way to Butler Cabin. While the two-time defending champ played poorly in the early going at Augusta to take himself out of contention, Canadian Mike Weir played well, opening up a six-stroke lead before beating Len Mattiace in a playoff to win his first major by a stroke.

Two months later, it is Weir, and not Woods, who has the chance to a complete the elusive Grand Slam within a calendar year. He'll shoot for his second major of 2003 beginning this week when the U.S. Open gets under way from Olympia Fields Country Club in Olympia Fields, Ill. ESPN and NBC offer coverage Thursday through Sunday, June 12-15.

ESPN's Scott Van Pelt, who will report from the course during ESPN's telecast and for "SportsCenter," thinks that Weir has raised his game to compete with the upper echelon of PGA players such as Woods, Ernie Els, Vijay Singh and Phil Mickelson. "I think what Weir has done is he's elevated his game in his own mind to the point that he now knows that he can compete in the biggest tournaments, the biggest stages," he says. "Based on what he had done in the past, playing well and winning the Tour Championship (in 2001), winning an event at Valderrama (the 2000 WGC-American Express Championship), his game was good enough. But those weren't majors, even though they were major championship-caliber fields. And to win that event, I think, changes how he views himself as a major player. He's just consistent. He's the kind of guy who's going to give himself chances to win lots of tournaments and majors certainly are part of them. But I think that the guy that's going to arrive as the favorite is the guy that arrives as the favorite at every major from now until he stops playing, and that'll be Tiger, obviously."

Woods will be looking to rebound from a mistake-filled Masters final round that saw him chip and putt poorly, eventually dropping him into a tie for 15th place, nine strokes behind Weir.

"It just didn't go his way," Van Pelt says of Woods' Masters performance. "It was a weird week down there. Not to make excuses for him, but it was a weird week for everybody, just because there was so much rain, and then you play 36 holes. But he was right where he wanted to be on Sunday and it just didn't go his way there. He typically takes a bunch of time off before the U.S. Open. He's doing that this year."

With eight victories in major tournaments, Woods is nearly halfway to his goal of eclipsing Jack Nicklaus' record of 18. That, combined with his inconsistent play at Augusta in April, makes Van Pelt think Woods will be especially tough this week. "He's identified the majors as the most important tournaments he's going to play," Van Pelt says. "He's going to get his game geared up for those, and anything else in between really I think has very little relevance to him."

"He came out strong after the knee surgery (in December), won three times, looked great, and didn't win the Masters. Now he's taking some time, resting. I have every belief that he'll be ready for this event."

Van Pelt also thinks David Duval could be ready to break out of his funk. In recent years, injuries, personal problems and a bout with vertigo have taken their toll on the only player other than Woods to be No. 1 in the world over the last six years, but Van Pelt has a reason to believe Duval's fortunes could change soon. "I got a message from David recently that said, 'Don't be surprised if I start playing better soon.' And I would love for that to happen, because David is not only a friend, but I mean, just from a golf standpoint, it's better to see him playing well, and he hasn't played well at all."

"He went through a breakup with a girlfriend he was engaged to be married to, and sort of lost focus on the game - didn't care a whole lot about it," Van Pelt says. "Golf at this level is very difficult to put away and stop caring about because you can't just come back and flip a switch and turn it back on. I think that's sort of been what's happened with David."

"NASCAR Winston Cup Pocono 500" Sunday, June 8 (Fox, 12:30 p.m. ET): Entering today's Pocono 500 in Long Pond, Pa., as defending champion is a bit of a foreign feeling for Dale Jarrett. The 1999 Winston Cup king, one of the most consistent NASCAR drivers ever, has won just twice since he overtook then-teammate Ricky Rudd with less than six laps left here last year. The dry spell, which had Jarrett in an unfamiliar 23rd place overall after 11 races, prompted Jarrett's team to name a new crew and car chief in May.

"New York Yankees at Chicago Cubs" Sunday, June 8 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): Interleague baseball is no longer a novelty. That notion disappeared the first time the Devil Rays and Pirates played. But some matchups, like tonight's Yankees-Cubs Wrigley Field tilt, underscore its alluring nature. The two historic franchises boast a legion of talent, from sluggers Jason Giambi and Sammy Sosa to foreign imports Hideki Matsui and Hee Seop Choi.

"College Baseball" Friday, June 13 (ESPN2, 2 p.m. ET): The popularity of the College World Series is in the numbers: Over five million fans have had their tickets ripped at the gates of Rosenblatt Stadium since the Omaha, Neb., site became the Series' permanent home in 1950. Today's afternoon opener, plus a game tonight, begins another year of top-notch amateur baseball, all of which will be covered live on ESPN and ESPN2. It concludes with a best-of-three championship that begins June 21.

Contest to find a hunka hunka burnin' love

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

It's not too late to join the search for the sexiest man in America. "All My Children" characters Kendall Hart and Greenlee Smythe (Alicia Minshew, Rebecca Budig) are taking their reality show on the road to find a super hunk.

On "AMC," the two women travel the country looking for a man to promote their new line of cosmetics.

In real-life, there's an actual contest men can enter by sending in a 30-second video or appearing in person at one of the women's stops, including Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Atlanta and Miami.

Twenty-five finalists will be chosen from the entries and the market searches. After that number is whittled down to five, viewers will vote for their favorites over a five-week period. The winner will appear on "AMC" in September.

For more information about the contest, visit <http://www.abc.com>.

In other news: New faces are joining the cast of "All My Children."

Beginning Monday, June 9, Amanda Hall Rogers plays the role of Carolyn. She pays a visit when Jake (J. Eddie Peck) returns for a short stay.

On Wednesday, June 11, Amanda Hastings-Phillips begins her role as Kristi, whom Erica Kane (Susan Lucci) uses to keep her daughter away from Lena (Olga Sosnovska).

Dear Candace: Thanks for writing the article about Maurice Benard (Sonny Corinthos, "General Hospital") and his need for lithium. I am in the same boat, and it made me feel better to know that someone I'm a fan of shares the same illness. And that he's still able to do his job and live a normal life.

I also think Jason (Steve Burton), Sonny's sidekick, is a great actor. Is he related in any way to Ralph Fiennes, who was in "Red Dragon"? Jason in Saskatoon, Canada.

Dear Reader: Benard said if going public with his illness helped one person, then it would be worth it. So your words will mean a lot to him.

While they do have similar looks, Burton is not related to Fiennes.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC 8 Simple Rules for Dating My Teen-age Daughter

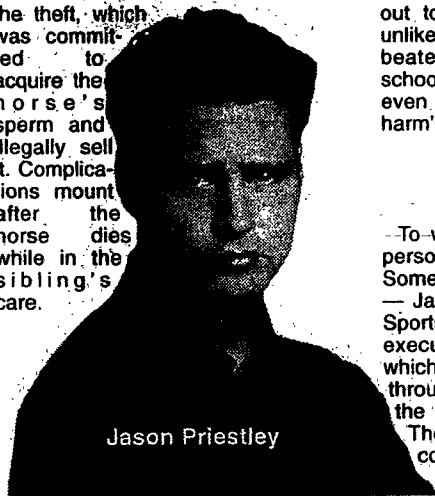

Dating a guy Dad likes has its perks, which Bridget (Kaley Cuoco) finds out in the episode "Son-in-Law." In this case, it's the son (guest star Matt Funke) of Michigan baseball legend Steve "Canned Heat" Smith (guest star Terry Bradshaw) who catches her eye, a development that thrills Paul (John Ritter) so much he relaxes the rules for her. Kerry (Amy Davidson) resents the fact that her dad still thinks of her as a child.

7 p.m. on 39-WB Smallville

Clark (Tom Welling) knows the weakness-causing effects of green kryptonite, and he learns what the crimson variation can do to him in "Red." It causes him to adopt an unattractive persona, which prompts him to use his powers destructively. Jonathan and Martha (John Schneider, Annette O'Toole) fear he'll expose his secret origins. Lana (Kristin Kreuk) is intrigued by the suddenly wilder Clark.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX Keen Eddie

When a valuable racehorse vanishes, Eddie and Pippin (Mark Valley, Julian Rhind-Tutt) try to determine who took the animal in the new episode "Horse Heir." Eddie learns that a friend's brother is involved in the theft, which was committed to acquire the horse's sperm and illegally sell it. Complications mount after the horse dies while in the sibling's care.

Jason Priestley

8 p.m. on 4-CBS The Guardian

After he becomes an assault victim, James' (Charles Malik Whitfield) nephew (Lee Thompson-Young) won't reveal names in "The Dark." Nick (Simon Baker) agrees to handle his case anyway, and the attackers turn out to be gang members who are unlikely to react well if named. The beaten youth is sent to another school for his own protection, but even then, he may not be out of harm's way.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC Last Comic Standing

To win in this new reality show, a person has to be really, really funny. Someone who knows a bit about that — Jay Mohr ("Jerry Maguire," "Mohr Sports") — is both the host and an executive producer of the series, which reduces the field of comedians through semifinal rounds, then puts the 10 finalists in a house together. The winner will get an exclusive contract to appear on NBC programs.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS Bloodlines: Technology Hits Home

With the continual advances being made in genetics, U.S. courts have been hard-pressed to keep up with many of the ethical and legal questions resulting from such experimentation. This new documentary focuses on several cases forcing a redefining of certain laws, as in the case of a baby who appears to have no less than five parents — though none of them is recognized as the child's legal guardian.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC NYPD Blue

It's not a good time to be a woman in New York in "Das Boots." The detectives have two grisly murder cases involving female victims on their hands. In one, two women are found tied up and slain in a vacant lot; in another, a woman's body is discovered in the laundry room of an apartment building. Dennis Franz stars.

9 p.m. on 19-PBS Cambodia's Killing Fields

Cambodia struggled to remain neutral as the Vietnam War was building, but the country was swept up in a wave of communism and became notorious for its "killing fields." The United States government's stance on Cambodia changed, in turn, and this new documentary examines the effects of that shift. Incorporated into the hour is footage of the bombing of Cambodia, part of a military campaign that almost eradicated an entire society.

9:30 p.m. on MTV The Osbournes

New episodes resume to round out the second season of the reality series about veteran rocker Ozzy Osbourne and his family, who are nothing if not colorful. Humor remains a factor, but the series also continues to examine family matriarch Sharon's battle against cancer and her relatives' struggle to cope with the situation. Also considered: Osbourne offspring Jack and Kelly's reactions to their newfound celebrity status.

Wednesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

That '70s Show

Singer Jessica Simpson reprises her earlier guest role in "Your Time Is Gonna Come." Her California-girl character, Annette, reunites with Kelso (Ashton Kutcher) by paying him a visit at home. Jackie (Mila Kunis) fumes as Annette stays with Donna (Laura Prepon), who organizes a slumber party — and pleads with Jackie to attend. Betty White and Tom Poston also guest star.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

The Harriman Alaska Expedition Retraced

Though he supposedly was intending to vacation at the time, railroad magnate Edward H. Harriman took a group of experts in various disciplines — from botanists to photographers — to Alaska with him in 1899. The result was a thorough exploration of the coastline, and the same route was followed by another expedition in 2001. This new special surveys how much change Alaska experienced in the century between the two treks.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Enterprise

Seeking fuel for the starship, Archer (Scott Bakula) orders the vessel to be set down at a mining colony — which turns out to be terrorized by Klingons — in "Marauders." The enemies also have the corner on the energy supply Enterprise requires, so Archer and his crew members coach the site's oppressed residents to fight back against the Klingons.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Bernie Mac Show

A sacrilegious act by Jordan (Jeremy Suarez) concerns Bernie and Wanda (Bernie Mac, Kellita Smith) in "Sin Cup." They're prompted to ask a minister to have a chat with Jordan, but the talk doesn't seem to do much good. The implied message gets through to Bryana (Dee Dee Davis), though, giving Jordan the opportunity to use her as an innocent pawn in pulling a major prank on Bernie.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

An apparent high-school love triangle results in murder in "Shangri-La." The stabbing death of an English teacher leads Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) to another faculty member (Rob Campbell) and the student (Stephi Lineburg) with whom he became romantically involved.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

The Twilight Zone

A telephone-company worker (Jeremy Piven, "Cupid") is transformed by a direct lightning strike in "The Linesman." Formerly mild-mannered, he takes on a harsher persona after his accident enables him to hear the thoughts of others. He tries to use that gift to manipulate the woman (Olivia d'Abo, "The Wonder Years") he admires. Jonathan Frakes ("Star Trek: The Next Generation") directed the story.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: The Summer of Ben Tyler

James Woods stars as Temple Rayburn, a lawyer in a segregated town in the 1940s South. When his family's black housekeeper dies leaves her son (Charles Mattocks) in their care, Temple is faced with giving up his ambitions to fulfill a moral obligation. Elizabeth McGovern also stars in the 1996 Hallmark Hall of Fame drama.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

The body of one of the two people in charge of a private gambling operation is found in the trunk of an expensive car in "Chosen." Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) immediately suspect the victim's partner. As McCoy and Southernlyn (Sam Waterston, Elisabeth Rohm) prosecute the case, they're thwarted by a defense attorney with a tricky strategy.

Will & Grace

Barry (Dan Futterman) finally is ready to come out, thanks to Will and Jack (Eric McCormack, Sean Hayes), in "Fagmation Part Three: Bye Bye Beards." Will isn't sure his assistance has been all that beneficial, and Grace (Debra Messing) seems to concur. Karén (Megan Mullally) is determined not to let rival Beverley (Leslie Jordan) get the best of her at a charity auction.

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Frasier

Niles (David Hyde Pierce) sets out to change his lifestyle in the aftermath of his operation in "Don't Go Breaking My Heart," the conclusion of a three-part story. His constant espousing of his new outlook quickly wears thin on Frasier (Kelsey Grammer), who feels guilty because of his earlier promise to maintain harmony with Niles. Daphne (Jane Leeves) is frustrated by Niles' resistance to intimacy with her.

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Movie: From Russia With Love

Widely hailed as one of the best James Bond movies, this 1963 adventure pits agent 007 (Sean Connery) against vicious enemy Red Grant (Robert Shaw) in a legendary train-fight sequence that ties into a plot by the organization SPECTRE to discredit the spy. Daniela Bianchi plays the love interest, who is "forced" to lure Bond into her arms. Lotte Lenya plays memorable villain Rosa Klebb, who hides a knife in her shoe.

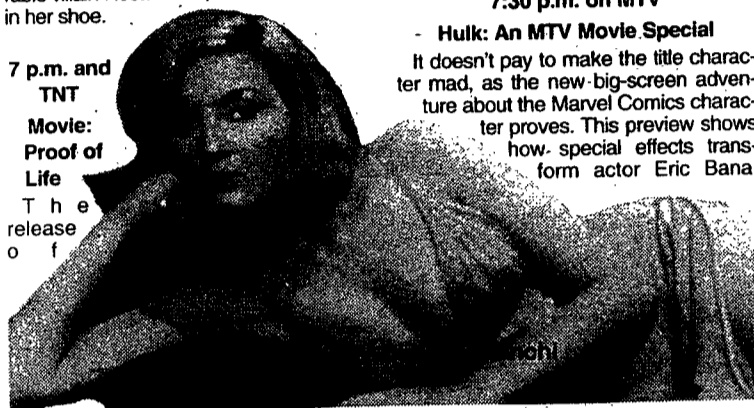

7 p.m. and
TNT

Movie:

Proof of

of director Taylor Hackford's ("An Officer and a Gentleman") 2000 film was overshadowed by the real-life drama stirred by the romance of stars Meg Ryan and Russell Crowe. Ryan plays a woman who hires a troubleshooter (Crowe) to save her kidnapped engineer husband (David Morse, "Hack") from South American captors. Morse's stunt double was killed while making the movie. David Caruso ("CSI: Miami") co-stars.

7:30 p.m. on MTV

Movie: Hulk: An MTV Movie Special

It doesn't pay to make the title character mad, as the new big-screen adventure about the Marvel Comics character proves. This preview shows how special effects transform actor Eric Bana.

playing irradiated scientist Bruce Banner, into a raging Hulk when he's angered.

8 p.m. and DSC

Danger in the O.R.

Anyone about to go into the hospital may want to think twice about watching this cautionary new special, which reveals how many errors are made by surgeons each year. The statistics are hardly comforting, since thousands upon thousands of deaths are attributed to medical mistakes.

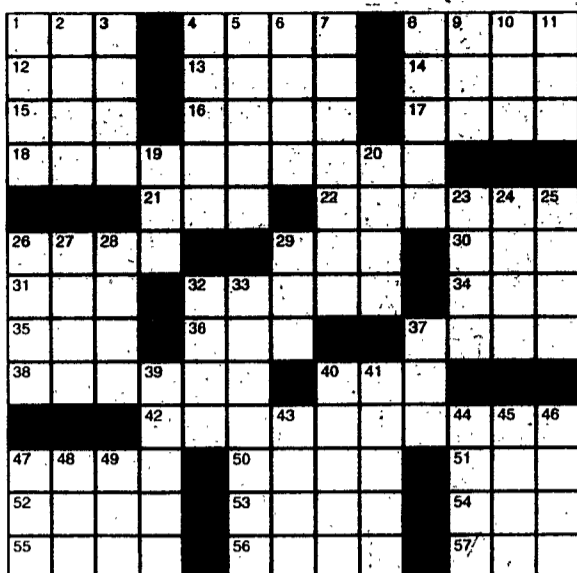

8 p.m. on TMC

Movie: The Accused

Jodie Foster won an Oscar for her performance in this disturbing drama as a young woman gang-raped in a Massachusetts bar. Kelly McGillis ("Top Gun") also stars as the lawyer who dares to make the witnesses to the attack as accountable as those who committed it. Bernie Coulson co-stars in the 1988 film, which is based on an actual event.

Saturday Best Bets

3 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

WNBA Basketball

Each WNBA team unveils new uniforms this season, created, as the league says, to "maximize performance" (although a cynic might suggest it was designed to "maximize jersey sales). The New York Liberty hope the new duds do as the league claims, all the way to their first championship. They have come up bridesmaids four times in the title series, the fourth being last season against Lisa Leslie and the L.A. Sparks, their opponent today.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Cirque du Soleil: Varekai

The innovative troupe's current touring production comes to television. The setting is an unusual world situated at a volcano summit into which a young man parachutes. Before long, he experiences the unusual aspects of the locale and its creatures. The cast includes performers from 13 countries, ranging from the United States and Canada to Italy and Russia; their various skills are underscored by distinctive lighting.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Star Wars: Episode II — Attack of the Clones

The latest chapter of producer-director George Lucas' fantasy saga significantly advances the relationship of Anakin Skywalker and Padme Amidala (Hayden Christensen, Natalie Portman). An assassination plot against Padme — now a senator — reveals a shortage of Jedi knights to protect her, so an army of clones is recruited. "Episode I" co-stars Ewan McGregor and Samuel L. Jackson also return in this 2002 installment.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

The District

A suspect carrying an infectious virus causes the quarantine of police headquarters in "Sacrifices." As Mannion (Craig T. Nelson) tries to calm everyone who's inside, homeland security agents try to determine if the ill man is linked to terrorists. Not realizing he's been exposed, Temple (Sean Patrick Thomas) is on the streets, pursued by DeBreno and Kendall (Jonathan LaPaglia, Kristen Wilson).

Maxim's Hot 100

The title list of women fuels this new special, in which male personalities — including comedians Bernie Mac and Eddie Griffin — reveal why they think the chosen ladies qualify. Among those who made the cut: Shania Twain, “American Idol” Kelly Clarkson, Trista Rehn (alias “The Bachelorette”), singer Kelly Rowland and model Gisele Bündchen. Mya, Shakira and the Pussycat Dolls provide musical entertainment.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Agency

Stiles and Terri (Jason O'Mara, Paige Turco) are sent to the Gaza Strip to find a native Palestinian (guest star Faran Tahir) who left his American wife (guest star Gabrielle Carteris, "Beverly Hills, 90210") behind after carrying out a travel-agency massacre in "An Isolated Incident." In trying to determine if the fugitive is linked to a terrorist ring, the CIA operatives discover the startling reason he may have committed the murders.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law &
Order:
Special

Victims Unit

Judith Light ("Who's the Boss?") continues her recurring guest role as the unit's bureau chief in "Justice." She involves herself in the probe of a rape and murder, in which the victim was the stepdaughter of a controversial judge (Keir Dullea, "2001: A Space Odyssey"). The perpetrator may be someone close to home.

9:30 p.m. on HBO

Robin Williams: Live on Broadway

Movies haven't left the Oscar winner ("Good Will Hunting") much time for stand-up comedy in the past decade, but he's in rare form in this special recorded at the Broadway Theatre in New York. Be sure to buckle up; an older and wiser Williams is popping-pongs among topics at the same breakneck speed as in his younger days.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"FRIDA": It can pay to have one very long eyebrow, since this portrait of vibrant but troubled artist Frida Kahlo earned an Academy Award for make-up. (Another went to Elliot Goldenthal's music score.) Title star Salma Hayek spent much time nurturing the solid portrait of the fiercely independent Kahlo's stormy relationship with her mentor, Diego Rivera (Alfred Molina). Geoffrey Rush, Ashley Judd and Antonio Banderas also are in director Julie Taymor's cast. DVD extras: audio commentaries by Taymor and Goldenthal; interviews with Hayek and Taymor; "making-of" documentaries; facts about Frida Kahlo. *** (R: AS, P)

"OLD SCHOOL": Upset that their post-education lives aren't turning out as they'd hoped, three longtime friends - played by Luke Wilson, Will Ferrell ("Saturday Night Live") and Vince Vaughn - establish their own college fraternity in this uneven yet amusing comedy. The school's dean (Jeremy Piven) is unhappy with the crowd they attract, so he works overtime to get them evicted. Leah Remini ("The King of Queens") and TV talk show host Craig Kilborn co-star. DVD extras: audio commentary by director Todd Phillips and cast members; "making-of" documentary; deleted scenes; photo gallery; bloopers; mock Oscar-nomination campaign. ** (R and unrated versions: AS, P)

Video Vantage

"TEARS OF THE SUN": Taking one of the quickest theater-to-video paths to date, this grim military drama from director Antoine Fuqua ("Training Day") casts Bruce Willis as a Special Ops lieutenant who leads his men into the Nigerian jungle to save a doctor (Monica Bellucci) from a dictator's forces. There's a catch: She won't leave unless the villagers she's treating can go along. Cole Hauser and Eamonn Walker ("Oz") play two of Willis' soldiers. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Fuqua; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; facts about Africa; interactive map of Africa. *** (R: AS, P, V)

"BIKER BOYZ": White-collar African-Americans moonlight as members of an after-hours motorcycle club in this effective drama, helped greatly by the typically convincing work of the club's leader - who is known as "Smoke." He tries to defend his championship in an annual bike competition, but staying at the top is made more challenging for him by younger rivals. Co-stars include Derek Luke ("Antwone Fisher"), Orlando Jones and Kid Rock. DVD extras: DTS surround sound; "making-of" documentary; deleted scenes; photo gallery. *** (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"BUFFY THE VAMPIRE SLAYER: THE COMPLETE FOURTH SEASON": They've graduated from high school, but there's no rest for Buffy (Sarah Michelle Gellar) and her Scooby Gang in the latest DVD compilation of episodes from the recently ended TV series. Buffy doesn't adjust well to college life, especially when her roommate (Dagney Kerr) finds a direct path into Buffy's dreams. New beau Riley (Marc Blucas) initially makes things better. DVD extras: audio commentaries by various writers and directors, including series creator Joss Whedon, on selected episodes; "making-of" documentaries; photo gallery; scripts of selected episodes. *** (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"THEY": Presented by horror-meister Wes Craven ("A Nightmare on Elm Street"), this predictable thriller centers on a psychology student (Laura Regan) whose nightmares prove real. She's threatened by physical manifestations of the fears she had in her childhood; she's not alone, since her friends are facing the same sort of terror. Marc Blucas ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer"), Ethan Embry ("Dragnet") and Jon Abrahams ("Boston Public") co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; alternate ending. ** (PG-13: AS, P, V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"JUST MARRIED" (June 17): Ashton Kutcher ("That '70s Show") and Brittany Murphy ("8 Mile") play newlyweds who honeymoon in Europe. (PG-13: AS, P)

"NARC" (June 17): Jason Patric plays an ex-police detective brought back into the department to help with a murder investigation; Ray Liotta also stars. (R: AS, P, V)

"DARK BLUE" (June 24): At the time of the Rodney King incident in 1992 Los Angeles, a corrupt cop (Kurt Russell) alarms his rookie partner (Scott Speedman). (R: AS, P, V)

"THE HOURS" (June 24): Recent Oscar winner Nicole Kidman portrays Virginia Woolf, whose writing impacts two women (Julianne Moore, Meryl Streep) of later times. (PG-13: AS, P)

"KANGAROO JACK" (June 24): In Australia, two pals (Jerry O'Connell, Anthony Anderson) pursue a kangaroo that has made off with the small fortune they were carrying. (PG: P, V)

It's a war of wit as NBC seeks the 'Last Comic Standing'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

On a winter Saturday at NBC headquarters in Burbank, Calif., hundreds of would-be comedians line around the block, some arriving before dawn.

One by one they are led into a nearly empty soundstage, where they face a long walk to a short staircase up to a stage adorned with a stool and a mike. In front of them are two talent scouts; off to one side are producers, crew members, a publicist and a reporter. Blinking in the lights, they now have to be funny.

Miraculously, despite the early-morning cold and the nerves and the lack of sleep, some actually are.

This is but one of several auditions held around the country for "Last Comic Standing," an eight-episode series premiering Tuesday, June 10, on NBC. Episodes have a second run on Comedy Central within a week of airing on NBC.

Executive-produced by comedian and actor Jay Mohr ("Action," "Mohr Sports"), Barry Katz and Peter Engel ("Saved by the Bell"), the competition promises a talent development deal with NBC and a Comedy Central special to the lucky winner who survives a gauntlet of scouts, celebrity judges, audience voters and the American viewing public.

"It's basically a reality show where everybody deserves their 15 minutes of fame," says Mohr, who also serves as the show's host.

Mohr wasn't looking for a rerun of Fox's "American Idol," with its tart-tongued judge Simon Cowell. "I didn't want there to be a Simon," Mohr says, "because if you show people singing poorly, it's funny. But if you show people doing comedy poorly, it's not funny. It shows that we didn't do a good job searching the country for the best talent if we showcase people who aren't great."

Originally, according to Engel, the concept was to choose the contestants, put them in a house and let them battle for comedy supremacy. That still happens, but NBC first wanted to see the elimination process that led to the final group.

"We've done more episodes of the search than we planned," Engel says, "because it's fun. The search has taken on a life of its own."

Talent scouts Bob Read and Ross Mark went on the road and were pleasantly surprised.

"I just expected people to be a little more green and neurotic," Read says, "and not so polished and original."

They also found some odd trends in joke subjects. "Chicago was Rev. Jim from 'Taxi,' believe it or not," Mark says. "I kept thinking, 'Didn't that show go off the air 30 years ago?' Atlanta was Jehovah's Witnesses, and St. Louis was Michael Jackson. And New York was all the guys who still live at home with their parents."

Even at this early stage, the scouts weren't interested in tearing anyone down. "You know what," Read says, "give them a chuckle, give them a laugh, that means they walk out of here with their self-esteem."

"But if they want our opinion," Mark says, "we'll give it."

At the Los Angeles audition, the first comedian sent to the semifinals is Rialto, Calif., native Kyle Erby. When he is asked afterward how it felt to be first, he says, "I just figured they were telling everybody that. That's just the grace of God. I've been working hard. Things happen. I'm humbled."
